Gas Tax Increase Among Proposals

Carey Submits Record $10.7 Billion Budget

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — With a warning that his recommendations "entail both sacrifice and hardship," Gov. Hugh L. Carey has proposed to increase taxes by $806 million to finance a record $10.692 billion state budget.

The Democratic governor's budget for the 1975-76 fiscal year, which calls for spending $898 million more than the current year, drew immediate criticism from Republicans, with Assembly Minority Leader Perry B. Duryea charging the proposals, if enacted into law, would make the state "an economic wasteland."

The higher taxes proposed by Carey include an increase in the present 8 cents per gallon gasoline tax to 18 cents per gallon, boosts in business levies, two additional higher income tax brackets, changes in sales tax provisions and higher fees for motorists to obtain driver's licenses and register their vehicles.

In the message released Thursday night, Carey said that in an effort to balance spending and revenue, he was trimming state government with the abolishment or merger of 20 state agencies, the elimination of nearly 2,000 jobs through that process and the phasing out of 7,200 other state slots through attrition.

Carey said the state would end the current fiscal year March 31, $51 million in the red and said that would be paid off by a withdrawal from the Tax Stabilization Fund — the state's "rainy day" reserve. The withdrawal reduces the reserve to $31 million.

Although noting in the beginning of his message that he would "neither make apologies nor apportion blame," Carey charged sentences later that he had "inherited" from Republican Gov. Malcolm Wilson "a budget shaped in complacency, and we are called upon to honor it in adversity."

If approved by the legislature, and most sources say that appears doubtful, Carey's 10 cent per gallon gasoline tax boost would increase revenues by $410 million. The higher business levies were estimated to bring in $195 million, income tax changes, $80 million, sales tax revisions, $68 million, and the other taxes and fees, $53 million.

Related state budget stories on Page 11.

On the spending side, Carey said he had cut nearly $1 billion from requests facing him when he took office Jan. 1 but still had to fund higher "mandated" costs including $287 million in increased aid to local schools, $240 million in higher welfare and medical assistance plans, $249 million more for retirement benefits, salary increases and capital construction, $129 million to offset inflationary impacts and $87 million more in state revenue-sharing with local governments.

As usual, the largest lump sum spending is state aid to local governments, including schools and welfare programs, in which Carey called for $6.411 billion, an increase of $804 million over the current year.

Spending for state government operations would increase by $170 million to $3.346 billion and debt service would increase by $26 million to $353 million.

Capital construction programs would show a decrease of $102 million to $582 million.

On the revenue side, in addition to the $806 million in higher taxes, Carey said the state could expect $95 million more because of growth in the state's economy, $2 million in additional federal revenue sharing for a total of $241 million and $46 million more from bond sales for a total of $53 million.

In an apparent effort to make the controversial gasoline tax increase more palatable, Carey said that half the added dime would be returned directly to local governments.

Because most local governments begin their fiscal years

July 1, the amount would be $150 million in the 1975-76 year, increasing to $225 million in a full year. Public transportation, farm use, diesel fuel users, aviation and marine use would be exempt.

The higher income tax would apply to persons earning more than $27,000 and would increase the present maximum of 15 per cent on incomes over $25,000 to 16 per cent for persons earning more than $27,000 and to 17 per cent for persons earning over $29,000. In addition, married couples filing joint federal returns and separate state returns would be required to allocate deductions in the same proportion as income was allocated.

Business taxes would be boosted from 9 to 10 per cent and the franchise tax on banks would increase from 8 to 9 per cent. The exemption for professionals would be eliminated.

Sales taxes on a broad range of goods and services, including admission to sporting events, participant sports such as golf, hair transplants and other cosmetic changes would be applied. Sales tax exemptions, however, would be granted for certain medical supplies. Liquor taxes would go up 15 cents for a fifth and wine taxes would be increased 2 cents a gallon.

Carey proposed doubling the cost of a four-year driver's license from $4 to $8 and a chauffeur's license from $8 to $16, and increasing learner's permits from $2 to $5.

State GOP Leaders Rap Tax Proposals As 'Regressive'

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — Senate Majority Leader Warren M. Anderson today set the tone for Republican criticism of Democratic Gov. Hugh L. Carey's proposed $10.692 billion budget by labeling the request for $806 million in higher taxes:

"The most regressive tax program any governor has ever demanded of the people of this state."

The Binghamton lawmaker's reaction was echoed by other Republicans while Democratic legislative leaders were restrained in their comments on the spending and taxing plan.

Sen. John J. Marchi of Staten Island, Republican Senate Finance Committee chairman, charged Carey's call for new taxes represented a "180-degree turn from his campaign pledge to the public that he would not increase taxes."

Marchi added, "I have not seen anything in the budget message to document the need for new taxes" and said Carey was deliberately underestimating revenues to justify tax increases and build a fiscal cushion.

Democratic Senate Minority Leader Manfred Ohrenstein of Manhattan said, "I'm glad to note there has been no reduction in funds for education or local assistance, and there are increases for mental hygiene and several other social programs but, I am of course, concerned that additional burdens will be imposed on the taxpayers to provide these vital services."

He said the state's fiscal troubles stemmed from the past 16 years of Republican administrations and that he was pleased that Carey presented a budget "without any fiscal gimmickry." He said that would force the legislature "to face squarely up to our problems rather than evade them."

Meanwhile, Republican State Chairman Richard Rosenbaum Thursday night accused Gov. Hugh L. Carey of breaking campaign promises and branded the governor's fiscal proposals "irresponsible."

"I think (the proposed budget is) a total betrayal of the people's trust. Essentially, he (Carey) has broken promise after promise and now in his budget we have the ultimate in breaking promises."

"He said, for example, in October, that it was 'unthinkable,' to quote him exactly, that we would have a 10-cent increase in the price of gas by virtue of a tax," Rosenbaum told newsmen before addressing a Westchester County Republican Dinner.

Governor's Press Conference a 'Gasser'

By HUGH REYNOLDS

For Gov. Hugh L. Carey his first budget briefing with the press on Wednesday afternoon was something of a gas . . . his new 10-cents a gallon tax, that is.

The governor opened with a slide presentation but it wasn't too long before a reporter raised a question that was on just about everybody's mind. "What about the gas tax, governor?"

"You mean the Conservation Revenue Sharing Motor Fuel Tax?" replied Carey.

"Yeah, that's it. The gas tax," said the reporter. "That's conservation," shot back Carey. "I think you'll find that when you go to the gas pump."

Failing to get many laughs on that one, Carey under continual questioning, spelled out why he wants to increase the state tax on gasoline from eight cents to 18 cents, who will have to pay it, where it's going and why it's "more fair" than President Ford's plan to slap a three dollar a barrel tariff on imported oil.

"We've (the state) chosen what we feel is an elastic target," Carey said in rationalizing his opposition to Ford's plan. He said the President's tax would apply to everything involving oil and would raise the price of just about everything while the motorist would have a choice. He could drive less.

Despite the preponderance of New York City media, the upstate driver and the commuter were well represented in the discussion on the tax.

Carey allowed that a car was perhaps more of a necessity in the suburban and rural areas but justified the higher tax on those drivers by insisting that the tax derived from the gasoline tax would be returned to where it was collected through higher state aid payments.

"We do believe that those paying the tax deserve a significant portion back," Carey said, insisting that New York City would not be the major beneficiary. The returns are pegged to the origination of registration.

The way Carey explained it, 25 per cent of the present eight-cent a gallon tax goes back to the localities where it is collected. Under his plan, 50 per cent of the 18-cent tax will be returned.

Carey expects to raise $150 million with the gas tax in calendar 1975 (for the state, April to December, inclusive) with all of it going to state aid to localities.

He also expects it will result in decreased consumption.

A long list of exemptions was read off including most governmental bodies, most mass transit systems, school buses and fire trucks.

Carey also reviewed his reasons for not funding the new New York State Sports Authority. Primarily they were reasons of priority, the governor pointing out that in today's money market it is difficult to sell bonds for housing much less sports authorities.

Carey also pointed out that close analysis of the law creating the Sports Authority (of which Ulster County Clerk Albert Spada is a $12,500 a year commissioner), indicates that the state would be liable for its debts.

Carey was a good deal less specific when asked about his campaign pledges not to raise taxes. His defense seemed to be that he wasn't aware of the true nature of the state's fiscal position at the time.

Advisory Board Lists Six Priorities for City

KINGSTON

The Community Development Advisory Board has released its formal recommendations to Mayor Francis R. Koenig and Common Council on what it considers priorities for Kingston.

They include in the order presented by the 15-member advisory board but not necessarily in order of importance:

1. Redevelopment of lower "Broadway West."
2. Upgrading of designated water trunk lines.
3. Development of Kingston Point as recreation area.
4. Rehabilitation of housing and spot demolition.
5. Revitalization of Central Broadway.
6. Redevelopment of lower Ponckhockie.

Those priorities were gleaned from a list of 30 proposals presented at public hearings on Jan. 16 and Jan. 24.

While there is some question on what the priorities are among the priorities, there seems to be no question that the final six proposals have the solid support of the Advisory Council. "I've never seen a group in all my days that was in such complete agreement," Alderman Clifford G. Sinsabaugh, acting chairman of the council, told the Freeman.

Sinsabaugh emphasized that the order of priorities was not indicative of their importance. "Personally, I think the most important priority is those water trunk lines," he said. "I don't see how you can carry out any of the other programs without sufficient water."

Much of the same point was made by Jack Shienvold, president of the Board of Water Commissioners, at the Jan. 16 public hearing. Shienvold followed with a letter to the advisory council on Jan. 28 which stated that tests of main trunk lines on Clinton Avenue, Greenkill Avenue and Washington Avenue "show that its carrying capacity is 58 per cent below normal."

Shienvold estimates a cost of between $150,000 and $200,000 for rehabilitation, adding, "but the savings to city residents the county and even the state could be in the millions of dollars."

The city will get $5.4 million under the Community Development Act over the next five years with $1,357,000 being earmarked for the first three years of the program.

Indications are that Mayor Koenig, who was not available for comment today, will ask the Common Council to approve application for a 10 per cent grant ($135,700) so the city can draw up specific plans based, apparently, on the six priorities listed by the advisory council.

Sinsabaugh also announced that the advisory council would conduct a walking tour of the Broadway West area beginning at 3 p.m. (from city hall) on Thursday.

Asked why he scheduled a tour after the council's recommendations had been filed, Sinsabaugh replied, "Just because we made recommendations doesn't mean they will be approved."

In the same vein, the Rondout Advisory Board will sponsor a public meeting to discuss the program on Feb. 17 at 1 p.m. at 97 Broadway.

State Police Seek Aid of Public in Unsolved Murder Cases

By MATT SPIRENG
ELLENVILLE
 While the search continues for the killer of a 16-year-old Napanoch girl last October—a case in which a Florida fugitive who murdered at least 20 in a cross-country spree has become a suspect—investigation continues into another unsolved murder in southern Ulster County which occurred only two months earlier.

 Both investigations are being conducted by Ellenville State Police Bureau of Criminal Investigation personnel, who have been pursuing leads virtually without a letup since last August.

On the morning of Aug. 24, the first investigation began when troopers on routine patrol came across the bullet-torn body of Efraim F. Bello lying next to his car at an overlook on Route 44-55 in the Town of Rochester. The 25-year-old Kerhonkson man had been shot once in the head, once in the back and had a third bullet graze his shoulder, but he was still barely alive. A few hours later Bello died.

 The second investigation began the morning of Oct. 18 when the body of Diana L. Schoonmaker of Napanoch was found in the Ellenville landfill site. Her throat had been slit. As the Freeman reported Thursday, the investigation into Miss Schoonmaker's grisly murder has led to New Mexico, Georgia and Florida, among other states. And Paul John Knowles, a Florida jail escapee who has been tied in with at least 20 murders from Connecticut to Nevada, is being considered a suspect.

He was killed in December during a second escape attempt.
 Investigators explained that until a suspect—not necessarily Knowles—is proven to be the killer in the Schoonmaker murder, the case will remain open and be pursued.
 And while the Bello murder has not to date led to such far corners of the country nor to such infamous suspects as the Schoonmaker killing, it, too, is being actively pursued.

graph (lie detector) examinations have been conducted, but to no avail.
 Just as public aid is being sought in the Schoonmaker killing, where a $1,000 reward is offered for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the murderer (should it not be Knowles), authorities are seeking information from the public concerning the Bello killing. Of particular help would be information about the dead man's whereabouts between 1 a.m., when he was seen in a New Paltz bar, and the time he was found, about four hours later.

Executive County Session on CSEA Pact

KINGSTON
 Ulster County legislators will meet in executive session Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in the County Office Building to review a proposed two-year contract for employees which was ratified Wednesday night by the Civil Service Employees Association (CSEA).
 The legislature will not take action on the contract itself until its regular Feb. 13 meeting at the County Office Building.
 The purpose of the executive session is to allow the county's negotiating team to explain in detail all the terms of the proposed contract to members of the 33-man board.
 CSEA ratified the contract by a vote of 191 to 78 following a two-hour meeting attended by more than 300 persons, some of whom had to leave for work before the vote was taken.

 Although details of the contract have not been revealed, the Freeman learned that the new pact, retroactive to Jan. 1, establishes new minimum salaries ranging upward from $5,000 in Grade 1 to $15,692 for Grade 22. A general wage increase of 11 per cent will be added in

Area Man on Ford Staff

WASHINGTON, D.C.
 A 25-year-old man, who was prominent on the Republican scene in Ulster County and the northeast region several years ago, Robin E. Martin, has been named an advance man for President Gerald R. Ford.
 Although, he is presently located in Chevy Chase, Md., he told County Clerk Albert Spada that he intends to make Ulster County his official residence, and would like to get involved in area politics. Spada is also GOP county chairman.
 Martin made headlines here in 1972 when he was named regional coordinator of the Northeast Region for the Committee to Re-Elect the President, being responsible for coordinating the work in 11 counties.
 He is an executive vice president of the Regional Broadcasters Group which owns six AM and three FM radio stations, including WKNY in Kingston.

 Martin first joined President Ford's staff when Ford was appointed vice president and remained on his staff when Ford ascended to the presidency.
 He is now a staff assistant to the president in the Advance Office.
 Martin, a New York City native, received his BS degree in electrical engineering at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute (RPI) in 1972 and his masters degree in communications from RPI, specializing in the mass media.
 He holds a commercial pilot's license, private glider and instrument ratings as well as instrument and instructor certificates and instrument ground instructor's license.

Fatal Ship Collision

MARCUS HOOK, Pa. (UPI) — Two ships, one containing 315,000 gallons of crude oil, collided at dockside at the British Petroleum refinery here today, causing at least one death.

Several persons were believed missing and at least 20 were injured.

The U.S. Coast Guard said a Liberian tanker, the Corinthus, was moored at dockside unloading and was struck by the U.S. Edgar M. Queeney as it was leaving dockside, causing a series of explosions and fires.

The blasts shattered windows in a wide area and rocked this area of industrial complexes, including many refineries.

One person was confirmed dead on arrival at CrozerChester Medical Center, where 13 of the injured were taken.

A Coast Guard report said "numerous persons are unaccounted for at this time, although there is no detailed information as to specific casualties."

Coast Guard spokesman Chief Ed Conlon said later that he had "no idea" as to whether there were further casualties.

The Coast Guard dispatched two cutters, two tugboats, a buoy tender and two helicopters to aid in fire, control and search for victims.

Authorities said, however, it was difficult to determine how many were aboard the Corinthus because of numerous shore leaves. Originally, because of the smoke and flames that had blanketed the area the Coast Guard reported that the collision involved the Corinthus and a barge, but it was later determined that the dredge barge was docked nearby.

The spokesman said the Corinthus had approximately 315,000 gallons of crude oil aboard which apparently touched off the mass of flames and smoke which could be seen miles away.

Eyewitnesses said the bow of the tanker, the Corinthus, either sank or was blown off, and flames consumed the stern above water.

Flames from the Corinthus quickly ignited and virtually destroyed the BP docks in nearby Trainer.

A Coast Guard air crew reported flames from the initial blast jumped 400 to 500 high and spread a distance of two to three miles across the river, which separates the Pennsylvania and New Jersey borders.

The fire, touched off about 12:45 a.m., continued raging through the night on an oil slick on the river and the docks.

Rocky Sees Hoover Role in CIA Spying

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Vice President Nelson Rockefeller is telling associates that former FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover's refusal to cooperate led to illegal domestic spying by the CIA.

Rockefeller, who heads President Ford's panel investigating the CIA, said the CIA undertook the spying at the insistence of "the administration." He did not indicate whether this was the administration of President Lyndon Johnson or Richard Nixon, or both.

The vice president made the comments at a closed question-and-answer session for about 50 persons who paid a $1,000 each to attend a reception for Republicans in New Vernon, N.J., Wednesday, according to two persons who attended the meeting. He reportedly made similar comments to associates in Washington.

Rockefeller was quoted as saying information turned up by the commission indicates Hoover's role "seems to be where the problem began."

"This is what it looks like, but we've got to find out," another person quoted Rockefeller as saying.

Rockefeller, the sources said, cited no specific illegal actions of CIA, but referred to "these things" or "the problem." It has been reported the CIA engaged in widespread domestic spying that included surveillance and wiretapping, and compiling files on 10,000 American militants.

Rockefeller spokesman John Mulliken refused to say what the vice president told the New Jersey Republicans about the CIA.

"He mentioned the CIA, and said he hoped it wouldn't be torn apart by the investigation, but that the American people have to know what the intelligence community has been doing," Mulliken said. "It will all come out in the report." The commission's report is due April 1.

Rice Barges Reach Phnom Penh

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — Two more rice-laden barges completed the dangerous journey to Phnom Penh today, bolstering the besieged capital's food supplies and further reducing prospects for a U.S. military airlift.

Government sources said the barges were part of a convoy which left South Vietnam Wednesday night for the 71-mile trip through a gauntlet of Communist-supported insurgents dug in along the banks of the Mekong River.

Two rice barges from the convoy arrived here Thursday after a trip in which two vessels were sunk.

The sources said the latest arrivals had been forced to put in for one day to a government-controlled enclave at Neak Luong, 35 miles down river, to repair damage from Communist fire.

In all, the four barges brought about 6,800 tons of rice, or enough to feed the refugees swollen capital for some 12 days.

The rice was the first to arrive since Dec. 24, although some ammunition and fuel has been getting through since the insurgents opened their campaign to close the supply route four weeks ago.

Israel Winds Up War Probe

TEL AVIV (UPI) — Israel has ended a 14-month investigation of the 1973 Middle East War, keeping most of the findings secret but blaming intelligence errors and poor troop discipline for the initial reverses.

The Agranat Commission released a 43-page summary of its final report Thursday soon after handing the classified, 1,512-page study to Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin for review by the cabinet.

The summary, which failed to mention wartime Prime Minister Golda Meir and Defense Minister Moshe Dayan, declined to judge the "political-strategic decisions, war objectives or principles of specific battle plans."

But the report said controversial Maj. Gen. Ariel Sharon, the commander of the Israeli force that struck across the Suez Canal, was justified in ignoring orders from his superior.

Rabin, who succeeded Mrs. Meir as prime minister nine months after the fighting, declined to comment on the findings. Dayan, who had hoped the report would absolve him of blame for the setbacks, also refused comment.

The five-member civilian commission, led by Supreme Court President Shimon Agranat, admitted Israel was unprepared for the surprise Egyptian-Syrian offensive that touched off the 2½-week war on Oct. 6, 1973.

The commission said Israel suffered from faulty field intelligence, poor troop discipline and lack of frontline precautions during the first three days of fighting.

Sorry Showing at Polls

Those "saddest words of tongue or pen" are brought disquietingly to mind by news that only 21 per cent of persons 18 to 20 years went to the polls in last fall's midterm elections. Sixty-four per cent of those in this age category did not even register to vote, and in the 21 to 24 age bracket 53 per cent failed to register.

This is a grave disappointment to those who worked for a constitutional amendment lowering the minimum voting age to 18. They were somewhat encouraged when 48.3 per cent of the 18- to 20-year-olds turned out for the 1972 presidential election. Many saw this as the promising start of vigorous political involvement.

The hope was that our youngest voters, armed with knowledge and motivation gained in modern problems and political science classes, would seize the opportunity to make their voices heard. The dream was that this would bring a new drive for excellence in the political process. It might have been — but somewhere along the road the impetus was lost.

Not all of the reasons for this are easily pinned down. Some reasons are evident, however. Larry Suter, author of the Census Bureau report from which the figures are drawn, singles out two primary causes for the poor showing by young voters. One is the increased mobility of young persons. Another, perhaps the most important, is the negative, a-plague-on-both-your-houses reaction to the Watergate scandal.

Whatever the reasons, we are confronted with the dismaying fact that almost 80 per cent of those newly granted the franchise did not exercise it last November. This argues for renewed efforts — in the public schools, and by political parties and other groups concerned with the nation's political health — to educate youth as to the responsibilities that go with the right to vote.

Comment on this subject would be incomplete without some acknowledgement that older voters have nothing to brag about, either. There were some 141 million citizens eligible to vote last fall, but only 45 per cent did so. An estimated 76 million stayed away from the polls for one reason or another. It was the poorest midterm showing since 1958, and not far above the record low turnout of 32.5 per cent in the wartime year 1942.

When substantially fewer than half of those eligible to vote make the electoral decisions, the nation's political well-being is in question. It is plain that the entire electorate, not merely the youngest segment of it, stands in need of sharp reminders that the franchise is a precious right.

Faulty Air Control

It was a chilling thought that three pilots introduced when testifying about causes of last year's worst U.S. air disaster. In essence they rejected the idea that pilot error was to blame, and said that given the confusing nature of air traffic control instructions many pilots would have taken the same actions that led to a crash in which 92 persons died.

Louis M. Thayer, chairman of the National Transportation Safety Board hearing, appeared to support the pilots' testimony. At any rate he told of indications that some air traffic control instructions lead to widespread pilot confusion. That is clearly an intolerable state of affairs.

It is good to learn that the matter will be pursued by the federal agency. To be effective, traffic control instructions obviously must be unmistakable. The need for revision of the present faulty system is evident.

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — I don't know how other middle-aged men, beset by menopausal quirks and temptations, manage to keep on the straight and narrow, but I have found a method.

More precisely, the method has found me.

For illustration, just the other day I was browsing through the morning paper and came unexpectedly upon the admission by CIA chief William Colby that the Central Intelligence Agency has been spying on me. Well, there was a time when such tidings might have left me somewhat greenish. But I can now accept the CIA in my life with an inner serenity. I have developed this simple philosophy:

If men would but live their lives as though gumshoes from seven government agencies were always half a block behind, the appeal of the virtuous life would soon be made manifest to them.

I also get some comfort from the security that all this government attention provides. To waylay me, a bad man would have to get past a whole posse of federal flatfeet. Here is the latest count:

—In late 1970, the White House assigned Jack Caulfield, the precursor of the plumbers, to investigate me. His aim, according to a confidential Feb. 11, 1971, memo, was to make "the ability of the Andersons of the world to gain White House information both difficult and hazardous." He spent three months on the assignment, without notable results.

—The Pentagon's sleuths got on my trail in early 1971. They produced a bespectacled clerk, Eugene Smith, as our master spy, and, after third-degree grillings that left him with ulcers, dragged him before a grand jury in Norfolk, Va. The U.S. attorney there, Brian Gettings, quickly concluded that Smith was the wrong man.

—Shortly thereafter, the Washington Post reported that the White House "is directing a major effort to discredit columnist Jack Anderson" — an effort the Post said involved the Justice Department, Republican National Committee and CREEP (Committee to Re-Elect the President). These groups were to feed "negative material about Anderson" to the press and to sympathetic senators.

—By this time, the CIA and the FBI had joined the posse. A separate investigation was directed by Robert Mardian, then an assistant attorney general, whose plainclothesmen collaborated behind the scenes with Intertel, the private eye firm, which had been hired by ITT to spy on me. Mardian has now been convicted in the Watergate case.

—In 1972, the maladroit White House plumbers turned their attention from Pentagon Papers' leaker Daniel Ellsberg and scrawled my name on their blackboard as their new Public Enemy No. 1. Their relentless search for my sources led them at last to a gentle Navy yeoman and they browbeat a confession out of him that he was, indeed, a spy — not for me but for the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

—The following year, the FBI considered raiding my offices, but decided instead to arrest me in the streets in the act of receiving government documents from the Indians. As it turned out, it was my associate Les Whitten who was pinched. But the prosecutor dismissed the charges as groundless and the court further humiliated the government by ordering the FBI to destroy its records of my phone calls.

—A dozen years ago, the Internal Revenue Service checked out my tax returns and couldn't find a penny out of order. The tax sleuths didn't question my returns again until my name appeared on President Nixon's enemies list. Now the IRS is preparing to check every figure, every deduction, every voucher in my 1973 returns. The computer just happened to select me, by chance, for an in-depth audit, the IRS explained.

All this surveillance, meanwhile, has toned me up marvelously for the future. So ingrained are my deceptive habits today that even when I go out socially I change cabs enroute and never fail to get off an elevator at the wrong floor.

I have a sensitive eye and memory for the location of pay phones, and in conversation my evasive code has become so effective that half the time my own staff doesn't understand my instructions.

There are other pitfalls avoided. For other men, the Washington whirl is full of lures — massage parlors, Fanne Foxe-type bistros, get-rich-quick schemes, lobbyists who can offer all that comfort and cupidity hold dear. Temptation is everywhere.

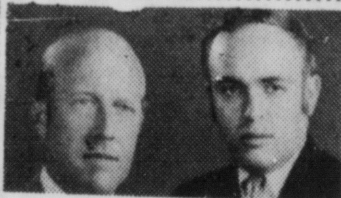

But not for me. The thought of all those cops back there, tripping over their night sticks but gaining on me, turns me right off.

Ford Winning First Round

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Although a final decision in the great war of politics between President Ford and the huge Democratic majority in Congress is far distant, Democrats in the House have now handed the President a lethal weapon to be used against themselves with potentially damaging effects.

Indeed, the controlling Democrats overrode some of their own best political strategists and unwittingly played into Mr. Ford's hands when they insisted on linking their 90-day ban on higher oil tariffs to the bill raising the debt ceiling.

When that bill gets to the President's desk, as seems highly probable, Mr. Ford now plans to veto it, perhaps with a fireside chat accusing the divided, uncertain and leaderless Democrats of playing politics with the energy crisis, the nation's worst dilemma since the Great Depression. Without a higher debt ceiling, he will paint the grim picture of payless paydays for government workers, the threat of default on government bonds and the specter of military and foreign commitments threatened by partisan politics.

First likely result: sustaining of the veto and congressional passage before the debt ceiling is actually reached late next month of a separate bill giving him the higher ceiling he needs to run the government.

The second probable result, and far more important to Mr. Ford: an opening round political victory of major magnitude depicting him as an activist leader pitted against a politics-as-usual congressional majority employing parliamentary tactics to shackle his freedom to act, at the same time unable to produce a competing energy plan of its own.

The trap into which the congressional Democrats may now have fallen was carefully — and secretly — laid by a handful of Republican members of the House Ways and Means Committee, led by Rep. Herman Schneebeli of Pennsylvania, the panel's senior Republican.

Schneebeli, with the connivance of the White House, simply "neglected" to vote four Republican proxies in the crucial, cliff-hanging 15-14 committee vote last week. That vote attached the 90-day ban on higher oil import fees (due to start next Saturday at $1 a barrel) to the debt ceiling bill. If voted, those four proxies would have defeated the move by the committee's liberal Democratic majority, over the opposition of chairman Al Ullman of Oregon, to use the debt ceiling bill as a Christmas tree and force him to sign it into law with the ban on higher oil tariffs.

This Democratic strategy, devised by committee liberals, is based on the rising national clamor against Mr. Ford's approach to the energy crisis: reduce the consumption of fuel by raising its price across the board, including home-heating fuels, instead of concentration on the vast waste of gasoline. What makes the strategy dubious is not its underlying political truth, which even Ford energy strategists privately agree on, but the transparent political tactic of unfairly forcing the President's hand.

Indeed, quite apart from the controversy building up over Mr. Ford's approach to the energy crisis, the mere fact that he finally produced a tangible program after endless months of inaction has given him his first chance to take the political offensive.

Thus, the President is telling both Democratic and Republican congressional leaders in long White House chats that he knows his program may be flawed. He insists he is ready to make generous compromises with the Democratic majority. But first, he says, the Democrats have to know exactly what they are for, not what they are against, and they have not begun to tell him because they don't know.

A confidential letter from Sen. Hubert Humphrey to House Speaker Carl Albert last month conveyed just such a warning about the political dangers of the huge Democratic majority having no economic or energy program.

"We simply must have someone who can call the shots and give a sense of direction," Humphrey wrote Albert.

Greatest Shotmaker Whoever Played the Game

The greatest round of golf was played at Sestriere in the Appennine Mountains of northern Italy. The date was July, 1936. It was won by an unknown American, Joseph Ezar, playing against the British Open champion, Henry Cotton.

Joe Ezar is a man with molasses skin and a deep voice. He carried 15 clubs in his bag, the last one a quart of Canadian Club. The great champions of the 1930s tried hard to sober Joe, but he was a laughing man who cared little for golf, except as a means of buying more liquor.

Once he bet $1,000 he could get into the British Open after the invitational lists had closed, and another $2,000 that he would be leading the field after two rounds. He won both bets, and didn't show up for the third and fourth rounds.

Hazily, he found himself in the Italian Alps. He was freezing in July, so he asked the bartender to skip the ice. He walked outside. The country club was six stories high, shaped like a glass of beer. A spiral ramp of concrete led to the top floor.

Ezar carried a bag of shag balls to the top, and set them loose. They bounced and gathered speed as they made the turns. In the lobby, couples heard the thunder of pony hoofs and ran for cover. Joe wasn't sure why he did it. It seems like a good idea at the time.

In the morning, he was introduced to the president of the Sestriere Country Club. Ezar had a head full of loose gravel and eyeballs swimming in ketchup. "What's the course record?" he said. The owner reminded Joe that he had not seen the course yet, but the record was 66.

"A low number," Joe said. "What will you give me if I tie it tomorrow?" The Italian smiled generously. "Bet," Joe said gravely. The owner shrugged. "You play against Mr. Cotton tomorrow. I give you 80-to-1." Small odds. "How much if I break it by one stroke?" "Ninety-to-1."

Ezar had $750. "Two strokes?" he said. "Oh, I give 100-to-1." "You got a bet," Ezar said. "Anybody got a golf card?" He marked the number of strokes on each hole, including a birdie three on the 18th. "I would like to be paid in British pounds," he wheezed and leaned against the bar to keep it from toppling.

Cotton, like most pros who knew Ezar, admired him as the greatest showmaker in the game. All he said, looking at the scorecard, was, "Are you crazy?" In the morning, when Joe was awakened, he said, "Go away. I'm drunk. I can't play."

Two caddies rolled him out of bed. He was shoved under a freezing needle shower. Two French golfers, who completed the foursome, reminded Joe that he had bet all his money that he would break the course record by two, and had marked a precise score of 18 holes.

Years later, when Ezar recounted the story, he told me that his hands were freezing and he tried to tee off in a camel hair coat. He was talked out of the coat and muttered, "Par is 73. Hit boldly."

Cotton said, "Relax, Joe. Nobody can do it. You're asking for 18 successive miracles." Ezar played the first 8 holes exactly as he had marked the card. The 9th was a short 320-yard par 4. The scorecard said: "3."

Ezar missed the tee shot. He was 80 yards short. He took a 5-iron and tried to run it up to the flag. The ball hit a soft spot 45 feet from the pin. Ezar froze and perspired. He sunk the putt.

Italian spectators lost their minds. They carried him to the 10th tee. He yelled for his coat. The 10th, 11th, 12th, and 13th were held out exactly as marked on the card. He was sober, and dying. On the green of the 17th, Ezar felt he couldn't swing a club one more time.

The 18th was a 290-yard dogleg, par 4. The right side of the narrow fairway was a mountainous cliff dropping 1,400 feet. The green was on the far side. Ezar needed a par 4 to tie the course record, a 3 to break it by a stroke, and eagle duce to win all the bets.

He begged Cotton to tee off first. Henry hit 240 yards safely down the fairway. Ezar tottered to his caddy and muttered, "Gimme a driver. No use thinking."

Joe smashed the ball across the chasm. It flew high and stood still like a black dot in the sky. It bounced on the edge of the green, flew upward, hit the pin and spun behind it two feet. The bedlam was deafening. The country club owner shouted, "I give all the money. All. Miracles! Miracles!"

Ezar got to the green and couldn't face the two-footer. "I'm too sick to think," he said to Cotton and tapped the ball in.

In recent years, Joe managed a driving range in Miami. Last week, I asked where he is. "Oh," a pro said. "I think he's a construction laborer somewhere."

Denies Nixon Tapes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. District Judge Charles R. Richey today denied former President Richard M. Nixon's claim to personal ownership of the presidential tapes and materials which he left behind at the White House.

In a lengthy opinion, Richey declared "there is no precedent which compels a finding that the 'presidential materials and tapes' are the personal property of former President Nixon."

"Congress has not sanctioned the personal ownership of 'presidential materials and tapes' generated and retained in the conduct of the Office of the President," he added.

GRANDMA'S NO LAZY
SUSAN—SHE USES IT!

Dear Heloise:
I'm a grandmother living in a mobile park and find space very limited.

As I bake a lot for my granddaughters, I missed my mixer on a stand until I found I could use my portable mixer by putting the bowl on a Lazy Susan from a round relish tray set I had.

Mrs. K. Massow

Dear Heloise:
I read with laughter the column recently on the "Unwritten Laws."

You have a feature in your column called "Letters of Laughter," which I dearly adore, and another which you call "Letters of Thought," which I never miss, because they help me so much.

I wish you would carry a feature called "Unwritten Laws" and ask for contributions. Here are a couple of unwritten laws at our house:

No one puts their dirty clothes in the laundry basket until Mom finishes the wash that was in the laundry basket, thinking all the dirty clothes are all laundered.

Or no one may remember school supplies needed the next day until Mom and Dad are already in bed and nearest store that is open is five miles away.

Carol

Carol, I cracked up while reading your letter. As a mother, I know just exactly what you mean.

How about it, readers, will you write and tell us the "Unwritten Law" in your house? We would love to hear from you! Write to Heloise in care of The Daily Freeman.

A June 7 wedding is planned.

Doing the Right Thing

By Elizabeth L. Post
Dear Mrs. Post: In past years, when celebrating my son's birthday, I would prepare a dinner for him and include his brother, his father and his grandmother. Not even aunts and uncles were invited.

Now my son has a wife and his father has died. Would like to have an intimate birthday dinner for my son, his wife and myself. My other son now lives quite a distance away.

My question concerns the new in-laws. Does politeness dictate that they must be included in the celebration? If they were invited, then must all their other children be included? I'd rather have the small dinner, but would not like to hurt anyone's feelings. Perhaps in future years, my son's wife will take over his birthday celebrations, but this year it seems to be up to me.

Thanks for your advice.

Mrs. P.C.

Dear Mrs. C.: I see no reason for including your son's in-laws at the birthday party. Presumably, since you have always had a very small celebration, that is what he most enjoys. When his wife takes over the responsibility, she will most likely include her parents, but that is her concern. For the present, it is your prerogative to limit the party to young couples. If they want to have an additional party the week before or after, they may certainly do so.

***
Dear Mrs. Post: I had a child two years ago, but did not marry his father. Now I am about to marry a wonderful man, and we are planning a formal wedding. May I wear white or not? I would very much like to, but will accept your recommendation.

Alice
Dear Alice: Wear off-white, or white with a touch of color in the trim and in your flowers. Don't wear a face veil. If you stick to those rules, you will be a beautiful bride and you will have satisfied the conventions, which I assume you wish to do since you took the trouble to ask for advice.

HOME ECONOMICS (Extension Service)

TIMELY TIPS

Here are some timely tips for gardeners in winter from Phyllis W. Barlow, Extension Home Economist.

Pruning diseased or damaged tree branches can be effectively done now. Paint wounds over one-half inch in diameter.

If not already done, those bulbs and tubers that were dug last fall should be checked for insect, disease, and/or rodent damage.

Plan flower beds, vegetable gardens, and landscape borders now.

For blooms to brighten up the indoors in three to five weeks, plant paper-white narcissus bulbs in bowls or low pots. They do not need a cold treatment for forcing as do hyacinths, tulips, etc.

On sunny days, don't forget to ventilate the coldframes. Begin forcing early-flowering trees and shrubs. Place cut branches in containers of water in a cool, dimly lighted spot. Move them into a lighted area when the buds begin to swell.

Poinsettias that have finished flowering should be allowed to dry, laid on their sides under the greenhouse bench or in a cellar (temperature 55-60 degrees F.), and cut back sparingly.

Pot up or repot amaryllis for flowers in six to eight weeks. Place in a sunny window.

Soon after snowfall, carefully remove any heavy loads of snow from evergreens. Those evergreen trees and shrubs that are susceptible to splitting or breaking by snow, and have not yet been tied, should be secured right away.

Don't throw away leftover Christmas trees. Cut the branches and use them for winter protection in the garden. Spray house plants with a recommended insecticide to control aphids, mealybugs, and whiteflies.

Turn house plants every few weeks to keep them shapely. From now through early February, take cuttings from geranium stock plants. These will be ready for setting out in May or June.

Hardy bulbs, potted earlier, can be brought from cold storage at intervals and forced indoors or in the greenhouse.

Control silverfish and firebrats in the house. They eat materials high in protein, starch, or sugar content.

If thorough fall watering was not done and protection not given to exposed broadleaved evergreens, shading with burlap, snow fencing or evergreen boughs will still help to keep water loss down during this critical period.

When snow is off the ground, put down the second application of a turf fungicide for prevention or snowmold. Send for seed and nursery catalogs so the garden can be planned in advance.

Inspect outdoor plantings for mouse and rabbit damage. Put wire mesh around fruit trees and other plants likely to suffer this type of damage.

Allow poinsettias, cyclamen, and other holiday flowering plants to bloom as long as they like. Feed every three weeks and put them in a cool room for the night.

Look for mite damage and scale insects on house plants. Save fireplace wood ashes. They are valuable because they add potash and trace elements to the soil. However, they should be applied thinly on the garden.

Keep feeding the birds and have unfrozen water available for them.

Betty Ford's New-Found Designer Has Become an 'Overnight' Success

By MARIAN CHRISTY

Mrs. Gerald Ford stirred a major controversy recently when she announced that she would bypass buying expensive couture as her way of fighting inflation.

American designers—ious to "dress" the President's wife—grumbled that Mrs. Ford, an ex-fashion model, wasn't supporting a major American industry with an $8 billion annual volume.

Mrs. Ford, now a svelte size 6, retorted she was in the market for elegant clothes under $200—and would avoid the $2,000 price tags for "originals." She appeared impervious to industry criticism.

But a few days ago a Washington newspaper ran a story on Albert Capraro, 31, a Parsons School of Design 1964 graduate who worked in the shadow of Oscar de la Renta for eight years—and recently was hired by a New York manufacturer, Jerry Guttenberg, to design $80 dresses. Capraro, relatively unknown, makes clothes that are sold in 2,000 stores coast-to-coast. His name is on the label but Capraro was never regarded as a major force.

"I was sitting in my office last week and a secretary told me there was a call from the White House," says Capraro who said he thought it was a joke. Nancy Howe, Mrs. Ford's press secretary, told Capraro that the First Lady had seen the newspaper story and could he come to Washington to discuss designing clothes for her?

Capraro, one of those "overnight" successes, was met at the airport by a limousine and whisked to the President's private quarters behind the southwest gates for the White House. The first thing Mrs. Ford did was show Capraro a slew of sheer organzas, silks and brocades the President had purchased in China. "Mrs. Ford asked me to translate the materials into gowns," says Capraro, who'll be going back to Washington next week to fit an additional 12 outfits that Mrs. Ford chose from the spring-1975 collection. Prices range from $80 dresses to $160 gowns.

On Mrs. Ford: "She knows what she likes. She doesn't want to be the clotheshorse that Jacqueline Kennedy was in the '60s. Mrs. Ford demands ease and comfort. She is photographed continually and doesn't want to worry about hemlines that creep up or fabrics that wrinkle. She loves fashion—but when she wears clothes, she wants to forget about them!"

Mrs. Ford, who has been buying Oscar de la Renta's boutique items from the Frankie Welch shop in Alexandria, has a penchant for dresses that come equipped with their own jackets. "I think I've talked her into wearing more three-piece suits with blouses," says Capraro. "It's softer, newer and more feminine."

Dance, Workshop

Leftovers Western Square Dance Club will hold its regular Friday dance at Hurley Reformed Church, off Route 209, at 8 p.m. Caller will be Bob Bourassa who will hold a workshop for club level dancers prior to the dance. The workshop is a recent innovation which is proving successful and popular with the club dancers. It will begin promptly at 7:30 p.m.

Bourassa resides in Pittsfield, Mass., with his wife Rosemary and their five sons. He is vice president of the Berkshire Area Callers Association, and is a member of the New England Callers Association and the Capitol District Callers Association.

He has made many calling appearances throughout the New England area, New York State and Canada, and is club caller and class teacher for numerous groups in the Massachusetts area, Scotia, New York, as well as for the local Leftovers group.

An evening of fun is anticipated. All area club level dancers are invited.

Benefit Supper

Active Hose Fire Company No. 1 and its Ladies Auxiliary of Rosendale will hold a spaghetti and meatball supper for the benefit of Rosendale Library on Saturday from 5 to 8 p.m. in the firehall on Main Street in Rosendale. ## Doctor Is Sick, Sick, Sick . . .

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Recently, my son and his wife, Vicki, moved to Bakersfield, Cal. Being in a new area, Vicki looked in the Yellow Pages of her phone book to find an obstetrician to confirm her suspicions of pregnancy. She and my son wanted a baby very much. (Vicki is only 19.) What should have been a happy experience for her turned into a nightmare because of an idiot of a doctor.

He asked her if she was financially prepared to take care of a retarded or deformed baby. Naturally, she asked him if he had reason to believe anything was wrong. He said no, but she was so young and immature he thought he'd ask.

Vicki told the doctor that she wanted her husband with her during the delivery so they could share that beautiful experience together. He said, disgustedly: "There is nothing beautiful about it! It's a lot of grunting." (Have you ever heard of such talk from a doctor?) He also said he delivered a headless baby to a woman whose husband was in the room, and the husband nearly died.

Abby, this doctor instilled such fears and doubts in Vicki, I could wring his neck. I don't want this to happen to another expectant mother. Is there someone I can report him to?

READY TO EXPLODE IN VICTORVILLE

DEAR READY: Yes. Contact his County Medical Society and report him to the grievance committee. He shouldn't be allowed to practice. He sounds like a very sick man.

DEAR ABBY: Is nothing sacred? Here I am sitting with my boyfriend watching television, when all of a sudden we see a commercial come on for a product that makes me want to crawl under the rug. Good grief! I felt my face getting hot as a poker.

Then, a while later, another commercial came on for a medicine to treat a very embarrassing ailment which is not mentioned in polite company.

Where can I write to complain?

RED-FACED

DEAR RED: Regarding offensive TV commercials, write to the Federal Communications Commission Office, 1919 M Street, Washington, D.C. 20554.

DEAR ABBY: Thanks for printing that letter from the woman signed "Restless." She confessed that she had the urge to run away from her family, and wanted to know if other wives experienced that feeling.

I have. Many times I've wanted to run away from my husband, and yes, my children, too, and start life all over again where no one would know me.

I've been married for 28 years, and my children are gone now. I've had a fairly good marriage. By that I mean I've had more good days than bad. No marriage is perfect. My mother always told me: "You can't run away from your troubles, and you can't leave them behind. If you run away, you take your problems with you." She was right.

Tell "Restless" if she stayed with her marriage for 25 years, the good days have probably outnumbered her bad days, and that's not a bad average. Tell her not to lose heart. She has lots of company.

"B" IN LONG ISLAND

DEAR "B": You belong to a large sorority. You wouldn't believe the number of married women who wrote to confide that at one time they also had the urge to run away. One man courageously wrote: "Women don't have an exclusive on the urge to run away. I've had it, too, but thank God my sanity returned and good sense prevailed."

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212. Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped (20) envelope.

Doggies Retains Dart Lead

SAUGERTIES

Doggies "F" Troop, refusing to bow under the pressure of the stretch run, continues to wow the Saugerties Dartball

League this week.

Although they lost a game

last week the classy canines picked up two important victories to run their season record to 43-11.

Cementon S.C. had a chance to pick up some ground on the eagle leaders.

But they dropped two games and remain stuck in second place with a 40-14 record.

The Katsbaan Apaches and

the Malden West Camp Vols,

the only other teams with anything to be proud of, continue to hold down third and fourth place respectively. The Apaches (38-18) and the Vols

(30-24) both won twice last week.

The Golden Eagles, who were soaring to the heights of a euphoric .500 season, were caught in a downdraft and dropped two important games. Now 26-28, the birds are 17 games off the pace.

Centerville Vols and Centerville, two teams mired in the bottom half of the standings, each swept three games

last week. Centerville Vols stand 25-29 on the season;

Centerville is 21-33. But if either team is planning a stretch run, they should have started about a year ago.

There are "also-rans" and there are "never-rans." Trinity and Highwoods S.C. fall

somewhere between the two.

Trinity dropped a trio of games last week and now sports a ghostly 19-35 record.

And if nice guys finish last,

Highwoods S.C. must be the friendliest group of flingers in the area. With a record of 9-45, 34 games off the pace, and mathematically eliminated

before the season even began,

Highwoods is obviously playing for a high draft pick.

Ulster County Liberal Party Opposes South Viet Aid Increase

KINGSTON The executive committee of the Ulster County Liberal Party has announced its opposition to President Ford's proposed $522 million increase in aid to President Thieu's government in South Vietnam.

Pointing out that Ford has already labeled the American economy "not good" and that he recently rejected the National Health Insurance Program because he considered it to be inflationary, the Liberal Party's executive committee said the American people "have a right to know what kind of government their hard-earned tax dollars are being used to prop up." Paul Atkinson, serving as spokesman for the Liberal Party, maintained that Thieu's government "is one of the cruelest and most repressive dictatorships in the world today."

"U.S. dollars are now being used to maintain a primitive prison system which houses 200,000 political prisoners in violation of the cease fire accords," said Atkinson. "Many of those prisoners are clergymen whose only crime was to publically disagree with President Thieu."

Atkinson added that the Liberal Party, the first recognized political party in the United States to oppose America's involvement in South Vietnam, has not altered its position.

"If American troops over nearly a decade were unable to win the Vietnam War," said Atkinson, "it is not going to be won now by further financial aid to Thieu. That aid, if granted, will only prolong the conflict and suffering of the Vietnamese people and postpone for perhaps another year the end to that war that was inevitable even a generation ago."

Atkinson added that the party's executive committee favors an immediate cut-off of all aid to the South Vietnamese government.

Body Found

The bound, shot and strangled body of the great nephew of former British Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain was found stuffed in a box inside a rented trailer Houston police said. Joseph Chamberlain, 34, was reported missing by a fellow employee at Petty-Ray Geophysical, Inc. in Houston. (UPI)

Safety Tips on Fireplace Use

KINGSTON

While convenience, economy and ecology are causing more and more people to use manufactured wax/wood fireplace logs instead of natural firewood, there are dangers and a need exists for a break from traditional fireplace habits according to Kingston Fire Chief Robert L. Maines. "Many things people do with a real wood fire are either wasteful or dangerous," Maines said. "Poking at the fire, breaking up a burning log and building too large a fire are the most serious mistakes. These same habits also can create potential danger when manufactured logs are being used."

According to Maines, one of the major problems occurs when consumers use more than one manufactured log at a time or add a "firelog" to an existing fire. Virtually all nationally distributed brands of firelogs put out as much heat as two or three hardwood logs, and people can cause accidents if they ignite more than one at a time, he cautioned. Adding a firelog to an existing fire might result in a flare-up or an excessively hot fire.

Another mistake firelog users make is poking or breaking apart the log," Maines said. "The firelogs are made of compressed sawdust and wax, and when they are poked, bits of burning wax may stick to the fireplace tools and drip on the carpet. Poking also may break up the log, creating a larger burning surface and resulting in an intense heat flare-up. "The logs are designed to burn for two or three hours without special attention," he pointed out, "and the best method of tending such a fire is to sit back, relax and enjoy it."

"Most importantly," Maines emphasized, "follow all the directions on the fire-log wrapper." The chief added that for brands which have few instructions, users should heed the following tips:

- Start with an open damper and a clean flue.
- Use the right size log for the fireplace—small logs produce lower heat and are acceptable for small and free-standing fireplaces.

- Place the log at the back of the fireplace, preferably on a grate.
- Don't unwrap the log.

- Don't overload the fireplace.
- Never break up a burning log.

- Don't try to move a burning log—it can break.
- Never add manufactured firelogs to an existing fire. However, a firelog or other fuel may be added to a firelog after two hours.
- Never leave children unattended near a fire.
- To extinguish in an emergency, douse flames with sand, water or a chemical fire extinguisher. Do not break the log apart, as this tends to spread the fire.

Maines said that simply by paying close attention to such safety instructions, consumers can take full advantage of the benefits manufactured logs provide.

Special Service Now Provided

KINGSTON

The American Heart Association, Mid-Hudson Chapter, is now offering local industries a new Public Health Education Service to inform local workers of the danger signs and effects of heart disease.

The program is designed to help cut down on the huge costs to industry of heart disease, which now causes a loss of 52 million working days a year, according to Richard Mathews, the local chapter's commerce and industry chairman.

"The bill for this is estimated at over $10 billion," according to Mathews, "which includes lost income and payment for medical care."

For industries who take advantage of the ew program, each month the Heart Association will send an educational life-saving pamphlet, which can be read and discussed, or merely distributed to employees.

Special emphasis will be made of the importance of identifying and controlling high blood pressure, called the "silent killer," according to Mathews.

February is Heart Fund Month, Mathews reminded.

Quite a Day For George

KINGSTON

Call it charisma or perhaps just a capacity for caring. But George Jordon has something! And, it was that certain something that prompted about 200 county employees to converge Wednesday noon in the Legislative Chambers to pay homage to the retiring building maintenance foreman at a luncheon.

The unique event drew a diverse crowd—legislators and laborers, clerks and commissioners, judges, department heads and representatives of just about every one of the county's dozens of departments.

"George Jordon... This Is Your Day!" the sign read as guests stepped off the elevator for the luncheon which was arranged by Al Sellet, another county employee.

But, George didn't know it was "his day" until about an hour before the festivities were to begin and several office gals encountered him in the lobby and asked, "Aren't you going to your party George?"

Dumbfounded and dressed in his working clothes, George rose to the occasion easily with his usual good humor and the help of a shirt and tie his wife, Florence, brought along for the party.

Legislature Chairman Peter J. Savago presented Jordon with a certificate of appreciation on behalf of the legislature for his eight years of service to the county.

His wife shed a tear or two of happiness in view of the overwhelming reception given her husband and Jordon's son, Robert, a deputy clerk of the court, smiled his approval.

Perhaps it is the Jordon smile that captured the hearts of the people, or the gentle Irish brogue as he greeted everyone with a cheery good morning each day. But whatever it was, it will be missed.

"I'll not stay away," he assured everyone, "I'll come back to see you all. You are a great bunch to work for."

Mother Takes Issue With Police Report

KRUMVILLE

The mother of a 16-year-old Krumville youth who was arrested early Wednesday on an attempted murder charge after allegedly holding police at bay for several hours and allegedly firing a rifle from his home at police has taken issue with information released by officials concerning the incident.

Mrs. Minerva Degondea, 52, of Sahler Mill Road denied that she was held hostage by her son, and said that she received a cut hand while trying to take a broom away from him as he was threatening to smash a window.

Mrs. Degondea alleged that implications that her son was heavily involved with drugs were not correct, explaining that her son has had "one bad LSD trip," and that that was his only involvement with drugs. She said he has been treated once a month at Hudson River State Hospital since the LSD trip and that pills confiscated after the arrest were prescribed by a doctor. Syringes confiscated had been used for administering medicine to a neighbor's dog, she claimed.

Mrs. Degondea also insisted that her son was not firing at police officers, but was instead shooting at the emergency light on a patrol car. A Town of Olive car was said to have been struck four times by bullets, and police were reportedly standing within a few feet of the auto.

The youth was subdued after tear gas was fired into the home. He is being held for psychiatric examination.

'Tax Increases In Poor Taste'

By TIM SCHUSTER

KINGSTON

A random sampling of opinion of area residents Thursday on their thoughts regarding the proposed solutions to the nation's oil situation brought one point home—tax increases of any nature are in poor favor.

This rather unsurprising fact, elicited in speaking with about 20 people in Kingston, Woodstock, and Saugerties, was perhaps made more meaningful by the fact that not one person spoke in favor of Governor Hugh Carey's 10 cent a gallon tax increase proposal.

And, while not statistically valid, the sample of opinion portrayed a state of mind much more concerned with paying this month's bills than balancing the federal budget.

We asked basically two questions: "Would you favor either gasoline rationing or increased price through taxes or tariffs?" and, "Would you be in favor of state taxation on some other items than gasoline for additional governmental revenues?"

CAROLYN NEWKIRK of Woodstock favored rationing gas, reflecting several viewpoints, because "at least we could afford it." She added that a rationing system should take into account larger per capita rural needs as mass transportation is lacking, saying that rationing would encourage people to use mass transit where available. In answer to the second question she said such luxury items as liquor and cigarettes should be the first taxed, not necessities like gasoline.

FRANK SMITH of Kingston said that "tariffs could be more easily removed" than taxes, which "always seem to be permanent." he said he had heard that a rationing program would have to be set up for five or ten years, and did not favor that. Smith commented that new taxes were not needed. "What's needed is stricter controls on government spending."

MARK ZUSS voted for "none of the above," stating instead that the country should "nationalize the oil industry." And he said that proliferation of taxes "show that the government is in distress."

PAUL DUMONT of Woodstock was not in favor of the oil industry at all, nor gas nor cars. "We should use horses and carriages," he said, calling for higher taxes on "luxury model cars." He said that additional governmental revenues should be provided by placing a "higher income tax on the rich." And, in closing the subject on the oil business, he added, "Captain Beefheart said that oil is the dinosaur's revenge on the planet earth."

CATHY KNIFFEN was in favor of the rationing plan over others proposed because "we must look for other solutions these days than constantly raising prices," and she placed increased taxes in the same category as increased prices.

DONNA SCHMIDT of Woodstock stated opposition to both the tax increase and tariff proposition of President Ford's. "They just increase prices when you're trying to fight inflation," she commented, adding the oft heard remark that taxation ought to be restricted to "luxury items."

EMMA BRYANT of Saugerties said she could probably afford the increase in gas prices at the pump, but was "afraid it (the money) would just end up in the big oil companies' banks anyway." She also did not see any particular benefit to any new taxation.

All in all, the prevailing attitude seemed to be one of mild to strong distrust; and disbelief that any scheme thus far proposed was going to do anyone any good.

Why, Blow Me Down!

High winds which whipped through the Hudson Valley Wednesday night left their mark in Kingston. The gusts, estimated up to 40 miles an hour, toppled this tree behind the Rosendale Florist on Broadway. Elsewhere in the county, the winds scattered limbs and trees, causing numerous power outages. ## State Budget Views, Reactions

The Impact Is Softened . . .

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — Gov. Hugh L. Carey softened the impact of his proposed $806 million increase in taxes by pointing out that taxes are deductible on federal returns.

And, regarding the 10-cent-a-gallon tax on gasoline, the Democratic chief executive hastens to add that $150 million of the anticipated $410 million in state revenues would be returned to the localities hard pressed to make ends meet.

But, regardless of the hidden blessings of the massive tax hike, the bottom line says that every man, woman and child in the state would fork over an additional $43.57 as their share of the record spending plan.

Carey advisers refuse to speculate on what other means would be employed to raise that revenue if the legislature, controlled in the Senate by Republicans opposed to the levy, refuses to authorize the latter gas tax. However, the only alternative which could produce that amount of dollars would be hikes in sales or income taxes.

In brief, Carey's message to the legislature called for the following tax increases:

GAS TAX —$410 million, termed "the energy conservation, local revenue sharing levy" by Carey aides because of its expected reduction in fuel usage and announced intentions to turn $150 million back to localities.

BUSINESS TAXES —$195 million, from a hike from 9 to 10 per cent in the rate of the basic tax on general business corporations; a 2 per cent increase on allocated net incomes in excess of $100,000; a 1 per cent increase in the current 8 per cent franchise tax rate on banks, and elimination of the exemption for some professionals under the unincorporated business tax.

PERSONAL INCOME TAX —$80 million, by adding two additional tax brackets which would pay 16 per cent on taxable balances between $27,000 and $29,000 and 17 per cent in excess of $29,000, and requiring married couples filing separate returns to allocate their deductions according to individual income. The present maximum is 15 per cent.

CONSUMPTION TAXES —$68 million, broadening the sales tax base to cover services ranging from barbers to massage parlors, admission to events now exempt, and user charges on sports facilities, cosmetic and other services; hike taxes on liquor 15 cents per fifth and wine 2 cents a gallon.

OTHER TAXES —$53 million, including revised auto registration charges; a hike from $4 to $8 on new, four-year drivers licenses, and increases in occupational license and examination fees.

'No Relief In Sight' . . .

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — Advisors to Gov. Hugh L. Carey are anxiously watching the guideposts of the state's economy for signs that the current contraction could follow the same pattern as did the 1970-71 recession, cutting both deeper and longer in New York than in the nation as a whole.

Projections used by the architects of Carey's proposed 1975-76 state budget were based on a state economy intoxicated by inflation and drugged by unemployment. The net result in 1974 was slumping business activity.

The economic planners see no relief until late this year or early in 1976.

Indicators of the state's economy moved with the national barometer for the most part. The trends are expected to continue throughout 1975, with strong growth in personal income, declines in employment and business activity, and more increases in the jobless rate.

The 1974 index of business activity, dragged down by a 20 per cent decline in construction activity, and a 6 per cent fall off in the heavily weighted retail trade sector, suffered one of its sharpest declines in history. States on a 1967 base of 100, the index was 107 compared with 112 in 1973.

At the same time, wages and salaries paid to New Yorkers in 1974 were estimated to be about 7 per cent above the previous year's level.

Unemployment, which rose sharply toward the end of 1974, is anticipated to average close to 8 per cent for the year as a whole, with a peak at or near 8.5 per cent. Unemployment is expected to exceed 600,000.

Looking ahead to 1975, Carey's analysts expect employment to fall still further, riding another decline in the index to about 104, with some recovery expected in the components hardest hit during 1974.

Average weekly wages of manufacturing workers exceeded $178.50 in 1974, a sharp 8 per cent hike. At the same time, average weekly hours declined 1.5 per cent from 1973's near record level.

The projection calls for more of the same trends, with average hourly wages 8 per cent higher, tempered by a 1 per cent decline in average weekly hours so that weekly wages will jump 7 per cent to more than $191.00.

Trimming Away 'the Waste' . . .

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — In the first major shake-up in the structure of state government in decades, Gov. Hugh L. Carey has moved to either abolish or consolidate 20 state agencies, a move designed to trim jobs and costs.

Carey's decision was contained in his first executive budget, released Thursday night. Many of the agencies involved relate to sports or legalized gambling.

"I do not submit this budget pretending that it represents all the cuts that can possibly be made," Carey said of the budget released Thursday night.

"If more waste or inefficiencies can be identified, if more nonessential programs can be eliminated, that must and will be done," he said.

The governor said the mergers, transfers and eliminations would cut 1,977 jobs, including 147 patronage jobs. Currently, 1,084 of the jobs are filled.

The last time the structure of state government was changed significantly was in 1938 when the state constitution was amended.

Among those to be eliminated are the State Sports Authority, all of the advisory commissions to the State Racing and Wagering Board, and the Commission on Public Employee Pension and Retirement Systems.

Others being eliminated include: the Office of Prosecutorial Services; the Council on Architecture; the Council for Environmental Advisers; the Science and Technology Foundation, and the Commission on Legislature and Judicial Salaries.

The proposal calls for the Office of Planning Services and the Office for Local Government to be combined and placed under the Department of State. Their activities would be sharply reduced.

The St. Lawrence-Eastern Ontario Commission and the Hudson River Valley Commission will also be dropped and have their functions transferred to the Department of Environmental Conservation.

The regulatory functions of the State Athletic Commission would be shifted to the secretary of state's office and the commission would be abolished. The Environmental Facilities Corp. would be merged with En Con.

Adding Salary Hikes

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — Funds for the legislature requested in Gov. Hugh L. Carey's $10.692 billion executive budget are increased by $4.8 million to $37.1 million in the coming year, mostly due to higher salaries for lawmakers and a change in bookkeeping.

The legislative budget will be further increased shortly before the session ends when the supplemental budget is approved. It always includes funding for extra allowances for committee chairmen, ranking minority members and expense funds for rank-and-file legislators.

Pay for assemblymen and senators was increased to $23,500 this year from last year's $15,000, and that, as well as a change in payments to coincide with the state's fiscal year, boosted the payroll for the 60 senators by $1,040,000 and for the 150 assemblymen by $2,643,750 over the current fiscal year's budget.

In a statement issued by his office, Democratic Assembly Speaker Stanley Steingut said the budget for Assembly legislative operations decreased by $187,500 from $13,246,751 to $13,059,251. Legislative operations cover the costs of staffs and maintenance in the Assembly.

Steingut said the decrease was made possible by eliminating select committees,

Washington Trip . . . 'Go Home'

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON

Mayor Francis R. Koenig and the man who allegedly serves him as vice chairman of the Historic Landmarks Commission (Harry M. Thayer) but who more often roasts him as a radio editorialist, don't often agree on things. But they seem to agree on the overall effect of their trip to Washington on Jan. 28 on behalf of the old city hall.

Maybe they should have stayed home?

"Basically they told us to go back to the New York regional office," said the mayor. "They didn't really tell us anything we didn't know already."

"I don't feel we accomplished anything at all," said Thayer, "but we were enlightened. I came back very frankly downhearted."

Joining the mayor and Thayer were Alderman Emilio A. Primo Jr., chairman of the Common Council's Building and Supply Committee, which has jurisdiction over the building the city vacated some two and a half years ago, and George V. Hutton, a Pearl Street architect, former member of the Landmarks Commission and one of the few steadfast defenders of the old building at 408 Broadway.

Primo went to Washington as the "council's representative" and promised a "full report" to his colleagues although to date he has been unavailable for public comment.

Hutton went at his own expense (as did Thayer) "as an interested citizen" willing to offer his technical expertise.

The Kingston quartet met with officials from the National Historic Trust in the morning, had lunch with Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr. (Fish made arrangements for the meetings in Washington) and met with officials from the General Services Administration in the afternoon.

They had hoped to accomplish two purposes while in Washington; get some money from the National Historic Trust for restoration and preservation of city hall and then get some tenants from GSA to pay for it.

They came up empty on both counts. The people from the National Historic Trust told them money for such projects was routed out of Albany. They were advised to contact Alexander Aldrich for information. Thayer says he's done that and is awaiting an answer.

GSA after reviewing a list of 11 federal agencies with (separate) offices in Kingston, suggested that some departments of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW), Social Security and IRS might be interested but probably not the service recruiters or the FBI.

"The recruiters like ground floor offices," Thayer explained, "and the FBI likes to be kind of private, you know. They don't like people seeing them coming and going."

GSA also notified the city that the city hall would have to meet federal guidelines on air conditioning, lighting, heating, etc. Hutton had figured that tab at about $650,000. GSA also insists on an elevator. Make that $800,000. The mayor and Primo made it clear the city wouldn't go for that kind of money.

Still, there is some hope. "As far as I'm concerned, this is something you go all the way for," Thayer said. "It's a gem of a building. We're not ready to throw in the sponge."

The situation then is not entirely hopeless. Koenig told the Freeman on Thursday that he will definitely sign contracts for the temporary repair of the roof, "just as soon as I get them."

The job will cost $2,365 and will at least make the building weathertight as it awaits its fate.

Human Rights Act Aids Handicapped

By CARL GRAHAM

KINGSTON

A state official, speaking Thursday night at a human rights seminar for the handicapped, called the Flynn Act "one of the most important bills ever enacted in the State of New York."

Howard E. Jones, director of community services for the Division of Human Rights (DHR), said the Flynn Act, effective in September, 1974, had ended "many years of lack of progress in ending discrimination against the handicapped. They have been our forgotten citizens."

Flynn was joined on the seminar panel by Harry Anderson, DHR regional director from White Plains, and Adrienne Asch, a program analyst of for DHR's Disabled Task Force. The Rev. John H. Gilmore, executive director of the City of Kingston Commission on Human Rights, served as moderator.

Jones explained that the Flynn Act makes exceptions for people unable to perform functions required for various jobs, but cautioned that it did not apply where a person simply lacks the abilities needed for the job.

"We must reach out to the public," he told an audience of 35 in the Common Council chambers at City Hall. "We must tell them their rights under the Flynn Act. This meeting is part of that program."

He said the act has raised many questions still unanswered. "Would an alcoholic be covered? A narcotics addict? Victims of epileptic seizures or heart attacks?" he asked.

Jones cited a case where a Civil Service examination was given on the third floor of a building without an elevator, making it inaccessible to those on crutches or in wheel chairs, and asked if this was discrimination against the handicapped.

Anderson said the White Plains office had handled only five cases since September. One of these occurred in Kingston but he said he could give no details because the case is still in litigation.

"I hope we can come up with fair treatment for everyone," he said. "Human rights is for everybody, whether you are a minority group member or not."

Miss Asch, a Swarthmore College graduate who is blind, said the Flynn Act was the best of all state laws because it protects people with both physical and mental handicaps. "Devices are not needed to determine disability," she said. The test is if a person's function is impaired." She said DHR had handled 162 cases since September, involving the blind, the deafened, accident-injured, emotional disorders, epilepsy, high blood pressure, asthma, and many other causes of disfunction.

Asked from the audience if a recent advertisement for postal workers in Kingston was illegal because it stated that amputees should not apply, Miss Asch said the advertisement "on its face appears to be discriminatory," but Jones pointed out that DHR has no jurisdiction over federal agencies.

Orr's Third Hat Trick Rare for Defenseman

By United Press International

The way the fans are throwing out the hats at Bobby Orr this year, you'd think maybe the Boston Bruins nonpareil defenseman is getting a big head.

Actually, though when the hats hit the ice Thursday night it was in celebration of Orr's third hat trick of the season—certainly a rarity for a defenseman. The three goals provided goalie Gilles Gilbert with all the help he needed as the Bruins went on to drub the hapless California Seals 6-0.

In other NHL games Thursday, Buffalo downed the New York Rangers 6-3, Philadelphia topped Toronto 3-1, Detroit put away Pittsburgh 5-2 and Los Angeles beat Washington 6-4.

In addition to Orr's three goals, Johnny Bucyk also tallied for the Bruins—the 1,200th point of his long, illustrious career—along with Bobby Schmautz and Walt McKechnie. For Gilbert, it was the second shutout of the season.

Flyers 3, Maple Leafs 1

Bobby Clarke, Reggie Leach and Gary Dornhoefer all scored for Philadelphia to help the Flyers extend their unbeaten streak to seven games. Clarke now leads the NHL's Division I in scoring with 14 goals, 50 assists and 64 goals.

Red Wings 5, Penguins 2

Marcel Dionne set up linemate Danny Grant for the go-ahead goal and then tipped in one of his own three minutes later as the Red Wings, who blew a 2-0 lead, came back with three goals in the final period. Jean Pronovost with his 27th goal and Pierre Larouche with his 20th scored for the Penguins who are still safely ahead of the Red Wings for Division III's final playoff berth.

Sabres 6, Rangers 3

Jim Lorentz and Craig Ramsey scored a pair of goals apiece to give Buffalo its 100th career NHL win and enabled the Sabres to hold their ninepoint first place lead over Boston in Division IV. For the Rangers, the loss dropped them 10 points back of first place Philadelphia in Division I.

Kings 6, Caps 4

Tom Williams scored a goal and added two assists as Los Angeles moved into sole possession of first place in the NHL's

Division 3. The Kings needed a four-goal outburst in a 6:28 span of the second period to send the expansion Caps down to their 24th straight defeat on the road.

*** **

The Chicago Cougars will be perfectly content if they don't see the Quebec Nordiques or Michel Parizeau again this year.

Parizeau scored three goals Thursday night—two of them breaking ties—and the Nordiques beat Chicago for the third time in 12 days, 5-2, to hold their six point lead over Toronto in the World Hockey Association's Canadian Division.

In other WHA games, Toronto nipped Indianapolis 3-2, Minnesota trounced Vancouver 6-3 and Winnipeg beat Phoenix 5-3.

Nordiques 5, Cougars 2

Parizeau broke a 1-1 tie with his first goal at 9:29 of the first period, then broke a 2-2 tie midway through the second period before slamming an insurance tally with 9:19 left in the game. The three-goal outburst gave Parizeau 18 for the season.

Fighting Saints 6, Blazers 3

Don Tannahill rifled in two breakaway goals and then set up a third to spark Minnesota to its runaway win. It was the 14th win in the last 19 games for the Fighting Saints who moved a point ahead of idle San Diego into third place in the WHA's western division.

Toros 3, Racers 2

Vaclav Nedomansky and Paul Henderson scored within a minute of each other in the second period and Pat Hickey added the game-winner later in the period to enable the second place Toros to keep pace with the leading Nordiques in the Canadian Division.

Jets 5, Roadrunners 3

Bobby Hull banked a shot off the boards and it traveled 175 feet into the empty Phoenix net to wrap up Winnipeg's win. The two teams traded three goals apiece in the first period and fought through a scoreless second period. Anders Hedberg scored the winning goal with a 15-foot shot off Ulf Nilsson's faceoff pass just three seconds into a Winnipeg power play at 2:18 of the third period.

The goal was Hedberg's second of the night and 24th of the season. Hull's goal was his 44th in 44 games.

Seton Hall Suspends Coach

By U P I

Ordinarily a win over Fairfield—or any other team for that matter—would have pleased Seton Hall Coach Bill Raftery.

Unfortunately, however, Raftery was not on the bench for the Pirates' 89-87 win over Fairfield at Madison Square Garden Thursday night.

Neither was Seton Hall Athletic Director Richie Regan, Assistant Coach Horace Mahon or the Pirates' star player Glenn Mosley.

Less than six hours before game time, Raftery was stripped of his coaching job, Regan of his athletic directorship and Mosley of his player status in a devastating three-way housecleaning by the South Orange, N.J. school officials in an effort to ward off an NCAA probationary action for Raftery's alleged illegal recruiting of Mosley.

Chrus Kinum, a part-time assistant to Raftery, directed the team against Fairfield and guard Tom Falherty sewed the game up with a pair of free throws with three seconds remaining. But Kinum, too, was not reveling in victory, the Pirates 11th in 15 games this year.

"The players were unhappy about the suspensions," Kinum said. "We're like a family. These things hit us all very hard."

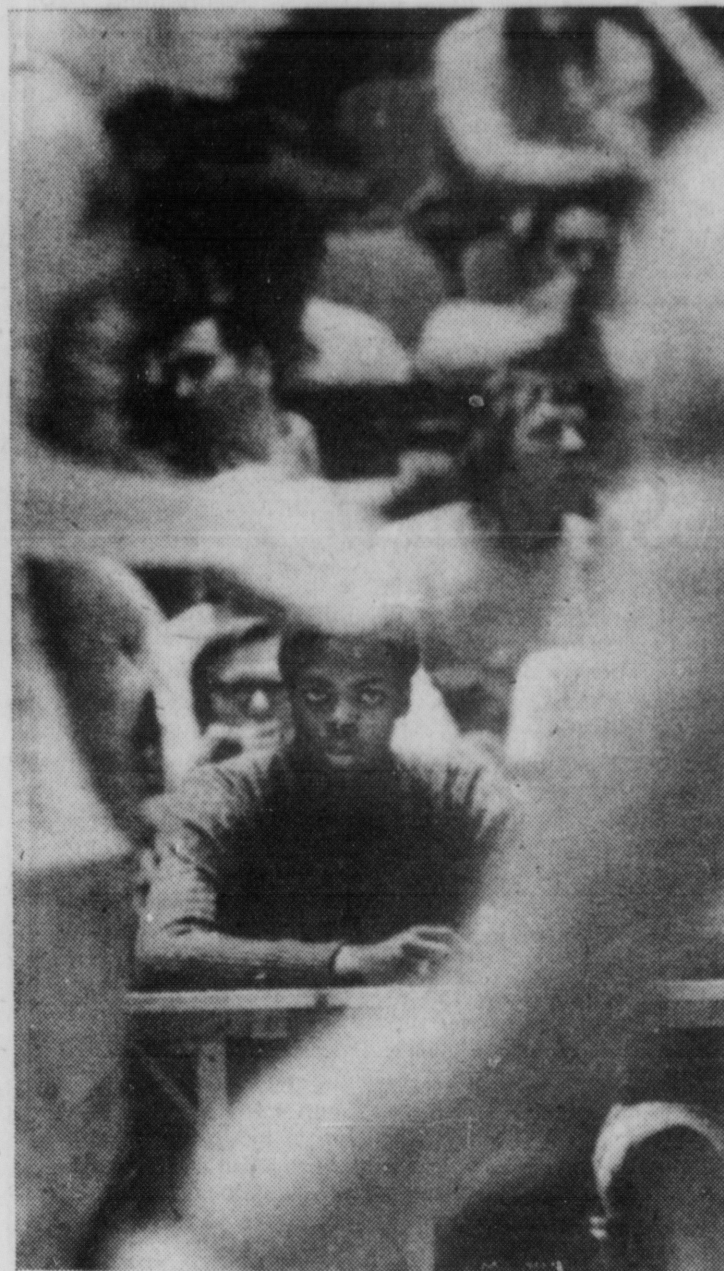

The 6-8 Mosley, leading rebounder in the nation, has been declared ineligible by the university for the remainder of this season, while Raftery, who insists he will "vigorously appeal any further NCAA action against Mosley," remains suspended for a month and Regan for three weeks.

Elsewhere across the nation, only one team in the top 20 was in action and that was No. 3 Louisville, which put away New Mexico State, 51-42. In other games, Holy Cross edged Manhattan, 76-74, Rutgers downed Bucknell, 94-72, Furman routed Appalachian State, 96-59, and Virginia survived a scare from Randolph Macon, 82-81.

Allen Murphy scored 14 and Junior Bridgeman 13 as the third-rated Cardinals ran their season record to 14-1. Relying heavily on a zone defense, Louisville held the Aggies to their lowest scoring total for any Cardinal opponent in 15 years. The Cards also sank all 19 of their shots from the free throw line.

Geiberger Leads With 66 in Hawaii

HONOLULU (UPI) — Lanky Al Geiberger, hounded by 54 other par breakers, took a precarious one-stroke lead into the second round of the $200,000 Hawaiian Open at the rainsoaked Waialae Course.

Geiberger added a back nine 32 to his opening nine 34 for a 66 by a combination of long drives and steady putting.

Hot on his heels were six players with 67s and 48 more—including defending champion Jack Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer, Gene Littler and Japan's Jumbo Ozaki—who broke the 72 par for Waialae.

Geiberger gave the wet greens credit for his six birdies and no bogies on the opening day.

"I was driving well," he said, "and the confidence I got from my drives helped my putting."

More of the rain which fell throughout the opening day was forecast for today. The National Weather Service said Oahu was within a "very extensive area of precipitation" which would probably continue at least through today.

Closest behind former PGA champion Geiberger were Bob Murphy, Charles Coody, Eddie Pearce, Allen Miller, Brian Allin and Bob E. Smith with 67s. Gary Groh could have joined that select sextet had he not "blacked out" by taking a casual swing at the ball which lay a quarter of an inch from the cup on the 10th hole and missed it completely. That double bogey gave him a 68 along with George Archer, Nicklaus and Ozaki.

Lee Trevino, a former Hawaiian Open winner, started out with a 36, but ran into trouble on the back nine where he carded a 39 for a 75.

Nicklaus said he enjoyed shooting his 68 in the opening round, but was unhappy that he let three par-five holes get away from him.

"This is the first round I've hit in the 60s this year," Nicklaus said, "so I'm finally going in the right direction."

LPGA Season Opens

MIAMI (UPI) — What President Carol Mann hopes will be a "boom year" for the Ladies Professional Golf Association begins today with the first event of the tour—the $40,000 Burdines Invitational.

A record field of 98 pros and six amateurs tee off on the demanding par 72 Kendale Lakes Country Club course in the 54-hole event.

"If anything, I think it will be a boom year," says Mann, denying that the sagging economy will have an effect on the tour.

"Fans are suddenly taking greater interest and crowds are getting larger," she said. "Television exposure the last couple years has helped."

Bud Erickson, the tour's executive director, was not quite as optimistic as Mann, calling it a "holding year."

"We're well set for sponsors this year. We will play for about the same money as last year," he said. "If the economy continues to go bad, then next year sponsors may hesitate to put up big money."

As usual at the beginning of a new year, the golfers themselves are optimistic.

As bubbly Sandra Post puts it: "I feel good about me and I feel good about the tour."

All of the tour's top players will tee it up in the year's first event, including Post.

The one possible exception is Jane Blalock, runnerup to Joann Carner in the moneywinning race last year, who is still hobbled by an ankle she injured while dancing.

"It's crazy, but I hurt it dancing in the living room a week ago," she said. "The doctor said I had strained ligaments and that if he didn't put it in a cast, I wouldn't walk for three weeks."

The cast came off last Wednesday, but Blalock is still unsure of her footing.

"For sure I plan to start Friday, and I'll finish if I'm at all able," she said.

Gonzales to Referee

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — Pancho Gonzalez, the graying all-time tennis great, is scheduled to be confirmed today, one might say, as referee of the $100,000 match between Rod Laver and Jimmy Connors.

A move by Connors' manager, Bill Riordan, to unseat Gonzalez ran up against an apparent stone wall of resistance Thursday at a secret meeting called by the sponsor of the winner-take-all shootout, Caesars Palace casino-hotel.

Thus, the unique match between the world's two top left-handed tennis players will go on as scheduled Sunday at 10 a.m. PST in an "age vs. youth" confrontation.

A news conference described as "very important" was set for 12:30 p.m. today in the Bacchanal Restaurant at the luxury hotel to formally announce the names of all the officials for the match in Caesars new half-million-dollar tennis pavilion.

The match chairman, Sidney Gathrid, a Caesars Palace executive, appointed the 46-year-old Gonzalez referee several weeks ago. He is tennis director at Caesars.

The referee is the supreme authority in a tennis match. The umpire is the one who calls the shots from a perch over the court.

Riordan came to town Monday and said there was a prior commitment made in New York to Bob Howe as referee and Gus Lanna as umpire. Both have worked frequently at Forest Hills tennis tournaments, he said.

Gonzalez and Laver said they knew of no such commitment. Gonzalez indicated he felt Riordan and possibly Connors opposed him because of a "personality conflict."

After the closed-door meeting in Gathrid's office, Frank Chirkianin, the producer who will oversee television for CBS, emerged and said, "Pancho Gonzalez is the referee. There will be a match Sunday."

Gonzalez already had made public a list of candidates to serve as linesmen and as other officials. This list included some past big names in tennis such as Don Budge, Tom Brown, Gene Mako, Barry Mackay, Gardner Malloy, Frank Parker, Dick Savitt, Ted Schroeder, Hugh Stewart and Bill Talbert.

McAdoo Has Sights Set on NBA Record

By U P I

Buffalo's Bob McAdoo, his sights keenly set on a second straight National Basketball Association scoring title, and the Denver Nuggets, aiming for their first American Basketball Association championship, continued to dominate their respective opponents Thursday night.

McAdoo poured in 37 points, upping his NBA leading average to 33.8 points per game on 15 of 27 field goal shooting, to lead the Braves to a 97-91 victory over the Cleveland Cavaliers. McAdoo, who also grabbed 12 rebounds, hit a pair of clutch free throws with 16 seconds left after the Cavs had cut the Braves' lead to 93-91 with 0:39 showing on the clock.

The victory was the eighth in the last 10 games for Buffalo, which also received 21 points from Randy Smith. The Cavs' loss was their seventh straight.

Denver, running away from the competition in the ABA West, romped over the Spirits of St. Louis 123-111 to stretch its best record in the pros to 41-10.

Nugget All-Star guards Ralph Simpson and Mack Calvin notched 28 points each while rookie of the year favorite Marvin Barnes hit 31 points for St. Louis. The Spirits' Freddie Lewis, who was voted the MVP Tuesday night at the All-Star game, sank a pair of free throws midway through the third quarter to become the eighth player to score 10,000 regular season points in his ABA career.

In other NBA games, New York edged Atlanta 117-115 and Houston beat Detroit 103-88. In the only other ABA game, San Antonio ripped Utah 118-102.

New York's John Gianelli broke clear from Atlanta defenders to take a long inbounds pass from Walt Frazier and popped in a two-footer with one second left to give the Knicks a 117-115 victory over the Atlanta Hawks Thursday night.

The winning shot came one second after Tom Henderson tied the game for the Hawks with two seconds left on a driving layup.

Atlanta jumped to a 12-point lead late in the first period, only to be overtaken in the second period when the Knicks assumed a 65-53 half-time lead.

New York expanded its lead to 18 points early in the second half before Atlanta ran off a 15-4 spurt and pulled even at 99-99 with 7:49 left. New York pushed back ahead before Henderson produced six of Atlanta's last eight points and nearly brought on an overtime.

The Knick guards, Earl Monroe and Frazier, led New York with 30 and 25 points respectively. Tom Van Arsdale paced the Hawks with 27 points and Henderson had 20. Rockets 103, Pistons 88.

Forward Rudy Tomjanovich scored 30 points and Kevin Kunnert grabbed 13 rebounds to lead Houston. Tomjanovich, who entered the game averaging 20 points, hit 14 of 20 shots and both of his free throws to lead all scorers. He also pulled down 10 rebounds. Kunnert combined with alternate center Steve Hawes to limit All-star Piston Bob Lanier to five rebounds.

Spurs 118, Stars 102

Jim Silas drilled in 17 of his game high 35 points in the final seven minutes to help San Antonio beat Utah. With score tied at 68-68 in the third quarter, Silas and George Gervin combined for 30 of the Spurs' 34 points to put San Antonio ahead for good.

Yeshiva Shades Hawks

NEW PALTZ

Without rebounder Ron Domanski in the second half, the New Paltz State basketball Hawks couldn't hang on to a lead against Yeshiva here Thursday night and fell victim, 60-58, to drop to 2-12 on the year.

Domanski caught an elbow in his eye and sat out most of the second half. A 33-28 Hawk halftime lead evaporated after that despite 23 points by New Paltz's Bob Irish as the invaders controlled the boards, 30-14. Bulky Ira Scharaga threw in 18 points to lead Yeshiva to its second win against nine losses.

Ron Monroe was the only other Hawk to reach double figures with 10 points. The shooting was almost even between the teams, New Paltz actually had one more field goal.

Westchester Now 23-0

HUTCHINSON, Kan.—(UPI)—San Jacinto, cruising with a 19-0 record, retained its No. 1 ranking Thursday in the national junior college basketball poll.

San Jacinto of Pasadena, Tex., captured 12 of the 21 first-place votes to stay ahead of No. 2-ranked Hutchinson (Kan.), with a 16-0 record, and No. 3-ranked Westchester (N.Y.), with a 23-0 mark.

The rest of the top 10: 4, Lake Land (Ill.); 5, Vincennes (Ind.); 6, Calhoun (Ala.) State; 7, Western Texas; 8, Muscatine (Iowa); 9, Western Wyoming; 10, Anderson (S.C.).

Four Teams Are Key To Kingston High Hopes

By IRA FUSFELD

KINGSTON When Mike Rienzo scanned his 1974-75 Kingston High School basketball schedule a while back he made the following determination: If KHS is to win the Dutchess County Scholastic League pennant, he reasoned, it would have to take at least five of its combined eight meetings with logical challengers — Poughkeepsie, Beacon, Roosevelt, and Lourdes.

As the Maroons head into the second half of the season tonight at Lourdes, they are not, according to Rienzo's figuring, following that championship course. Kingston has met those top contenders once each. But in four games KHS has done no better than split.

In other words, Kingston must not lose more than one game the rest of the way or it's wait until next year . . . at least if Rienzo's calculations hold.

"We'd have an outside chance with four losses," Rienzo said Thursday, "but it would be a lot safer with three. Of course, of the two losses, I think we should have beaten Poughkeepsie (the Maroons lost by one in double overtime)."

Most folks think Kingston also should have taken Lourdes, but the Warriors rallied in the fourth quarter to down the Maroons by six in the Field House opener last month. Since then, KHS has won seven of eight, Lourdes has nabbed five of eight.

Dick Beams' quintet comes off an upset loss to Arlington, a defeat which dropped the Poughkeepsie club out of a tie for first place.

"Lourdes will be out for bear after losing to Arlington," Rienzo warned, "but so will we."

Rienzo, whose career coaching record has improved from 46-49 to 53-51 since the season began, sees the key to tonight's contest as the ability of Kingston to stop Lourdes' gunner Tim Keating (19.9). He doesn't think the Warriors' home court edge will be a great one.

"We beat them bad down there last year," he recalled. Regardless of the outcome tonight, Kingston's immediate fate in the standings won't entirely be resolved until tomorrow afternoon when Poughkeepsie visits Beacon. The Pioneers nipped the Bulldogs in overtime last month.

In other DCSL game tonight, Roosevelt is at Ketcham, Arlington is at Spackenkill, and Saugerties is home to meet John Jay.

Over in the Ulster County Athletic League, Liberty, riding high in first place in Division I and rated fourth best small school in the state, visits Coleman; Fallsburgh tries to rebound from its loss to Liberty with a home game against Pine Bush; New Paltz goes to Walkkill; Marlboro hosts Ontario; Highland travels to Red Hook; and Ellenville entertains Rondout Valley.

Coleman is four games behind Liberty in Division I and worlds apart in terms of talent. But when Statesmen Coach Bill DuBois thought ahead to tonight's game last week he said his club would have a chance if the Redskins defeated Fallsburgh, which they eventually accomplished.

DuBois was counting on a Liberty letdown. He may not have been aware, however, that the Redskins had a game with Marlboro rescheduled in between the Fallsburgh game and his. It was in that contest with the Dukes that Liberty did indeed let down. But Floyd Emery's team managed a three-point win and probably got the sluggishness out of its system.

That isn't good news for Coleman, but if Kevin Coughlin (15.5) and Tony Albany (13.3) are on from the outside and Pete Gallagher (16.0) can get Reggie Biddings (21.4) into foul trouble . . . who knows?

Jameson's 178 Average Leads in Bowlerama

KINGSTON Joan Jameson and Yonta's Construction are the pacesetters in the Bowlerama Quads, one of the city's premier women's bowling leagues. Mrs. Jameson is one of three 170 plus average bowlers with top mark of 178.43 for the 54 games of the first half, while Yonta's (34-20) finished three games ahead of the runnerup Jameson-Moore squad.

"What can you get for making a great deal with The Dodge Boys? A check for $300 from Dodge."

Listen to ol' Joe G. I'm gonna tell you how to make the deal of a lifetime on the "Dodge of the Week." Right now, during the Car Clearance Carnival at the Dodge Boys.

Here's how: Every week from now till February 16, the Dodge Boys will pick one gorgeous Dodge as "Dodge of the Week." Could be a Monaco. A Dart. A Coronet. Even a pickup or van. Now you hustle down and make the Dodge Boys give you their best deal on that Dodge. Then, find out how you collect your check from Dodge for at least $200. But there's more. Trade in the right car on the "Dodge of the Week," and you get a $100 trade-in bonus. That's a total of $300!

But there's more to the Car Clearance Carnival than "Dodge of the Week" deals. Through February 28, the Dodge Boys are offering other great deals on all

Joe Garagiola

'75 Dodges. They've got a lot of cars to move. And they're gonna move 'em.

And—even if you don't end up buying a new Dodge, you might end up driving one. Just by entering the Dodge Boys' Clearance Sweepstakes! Each sweepstakes winner (and there'll be plenty—so one could be you) gets free use of a brand-new Dodge for one whole year. You've got nothing to lose. You've got nothing to buy. All you gotta do is come in for full details.

But hurry. If you're not driving a new Dodge by the end of the Car Clearance Carnival, it won't be the Dodge Boys' fault.

*Sorry, only one "Dodge of the Week" deal per customer. Retail customers only. Sweepstakes ends February 28, 1975. Void in states where prohibited by law. Open only to licensed drivers 18 years old or older.

Stocks

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prices opened slightly lower Friday on the New York Stock Exchange. Trading was moderate.

The Dow Jones industrial average, which lost 9.54 points Thursday, was behind 0.24 to 696.18 shortly after the opening bell. Thursday's retreat broke a six-day winning streak that had carried the blue chip indicator up 64.06 points. Declines routed advances, 164 to 127, among the more than 432 issues traded.

"The market was ready for a rest from recent gains," said one Wall Streeter. Other analysts expressed surprise profit-taking had not occurred earlier as the institutions moved heavily into the market, pushing volume to historic levels.

Chase Manhattan Bank's decision to lower its prime lending rate for top corporate borrowers to 9 per cent Thursday touched off an early rally. First National City, the nation's second largest bank and a trendsetter, Friday dropped its rate one-quarter percentage point to 9 1/4. Most other banks are expected to follow suit.

On another optimistic note, the Federal Reserve Board announced loan demand at New York's leading banks declined in the latest reporting period.

Nyquist Postpones Racial Hearings

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — State Education Commissioner Ewald B. Nyquist, who has been under heavy pressure from busing foes, Thursday postponed hearings on racial integration in five city school systems in the state.

In a brief statement issued by his office, Nyquist said he had asked the State Board of Regents for "clarification" of the policy statement on integration the Regents made last week. He also announced postponement of the hearings involving schools in Utica, Mount Vernon, Lackawanna, Newburgh and Buffalo.

The Regents, governing body of all education in the state with the power to hire and fire commissioners of education, last week adopted a policy statement seen as a challenge to proponents of busing to achieve racial integration.

The key phrase in the statement was "the population of a school district need not be required to be comprised by, or measured by, ratios or quotas of white to black or hispanic students."

When the Regents issued the statement, Nyquist conceded it came as a "surprise" to him and said he was "going ahead with the five cases. There would have to be an awfully good reason for postponement."

Nyquist last year ordered the five school districts to take steps to integrate and had scheduled hearings to force compliance with his order. The first hearing, involving Utica, was to have been held next Monday.

The other hearings were slated Feb. 7 for Mount Vernon, Feb. 10 for Lackawanna, Feb. 13 for Newburgh and Feb. 14 for Buffalo.

In his statement, Nyquist gave no indication whether or when the hearings would be rescheduled.

"Where did you dig up that opening bid?" asked South. "You're lucky I didn't bid a slam."

South was so busy talking that he forgot to make his game contract. He took his ace of diamonds; drew three rounds of trumps and led a club toward dummy. West played low and dummy's queen won the trick.

Now, South could do no better than to lead a diamond from dummy. West won the trick and led a heart. After that play there was no way for South to keep from losing four tricks.

If South had just used his brain and kept his mouth shut, he would have seen that he could afford just one trump lead.

Then he would lead a club to dummy's queen; return to his hand with that trump he had left in dummy; draw the rest of the trumps; lead another club and eventually discard his losing heart on dummy's king of clubs. (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

Ford Moves on Deficit in High Gear

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford is asking Congress to let him cut or delay federal spending of $2.6 billion for programs ranging from cancer research to construction of schools and hospitals.

Ford's request was the latest in a series of attempts he has made to hold down a multibillion dollar deficit this year — with virtual certainty of another one in the 1976 federal budget that he will submit Monday to Congress.

The bulk of his choices for the chopping block — $1.8 billion worth — dealt with social welfare and congressional sources expected them to encounter resistance on Capitol Hill.

Stanley B. Thomas Jr., of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, told Congress Thursday that Ford is proposing spending cuts in programs for the elderly already approved by Congress, including transportation, meals and other services.

The President's first order of official business today was to complete talks with British Prime Minister Harold Wilson. The two focused on international, economic and energy problems at a 90-minute session Thursday, and Ford later gave a black tie state dinner for Wilson at the White House.

In other developments Thursday, the President:

—sent Congress a 182-page package of proposed legislation, called "the Energy Independence Act of 1975," to carry out the fuel conservation steps he suggested 15 days ago in his State of the Union message. In appealing for "prompt action," he said "without these measures we face a future of shortages or dependence which the nation cannot tolerate and the American people will not accept."

—ordered an acceleration of $335.6 million in dividend payments on Veteran's Administration life insurance policies held by more than 2.5 million former GIs who served in World Wars I and II or Korea. The money will be paid out within the next 45 days.

In asking for deferral or rescission of the $2.6 billion, Ford told Congress its refusal to go along would mean a $357 million increase in the fiscal 1975 deficit and almost twice that amount next year.

In all, Ford sought 35 rescissions amounting to nearly $1.1 billion. If both the House and the Senate do not approve that request within 45 days the money will be released. The President listed 14 deferrals totaling $769 million. That action will take effect automatically unless either the House or the Senate votes to stop him.

Among the President's choices for outright elimination from the budget were:

—$123 million for the National Cancer Institute. Ford said the reduction "can be accomplished without seriously altering the momentum" in research.

—$104 million in programs run by the Alcohol, Drug Abuse and Mental Health Administration.

—$285 million for construction of medical facilities. The President said the move was designed "to avoid further stimulation of hospital construction" at a time of a general national over supply of hospital beds.

—$102.5 million in spending for Office of Education Programs to help handicap students.

Among the areas where Ford recommended postponement of spending were:

—$125 million in the "Job Opportunities Program" run by the Commerce Department.

—$301 million for building of health facilities.

—$298 million for "basic opportunity grants" in higher education that help students meet college costs.

Big City Mayors SOS for $5 Billion

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Big city mayors, plagued with rising costs, dwindling tax revenues and budget deficits, say they need $5 billion in emergency federal aid.

Fourteen of them told a Senate subcommittee Thursday their fiscal problems "have now risen to crisis proportions."

Mayor Richard Hatcher of

Gary, Ind., called for an additional $5 billion to create 500,000 new public service jobs.

"Inflation and recession are cutting deeply into city budgets," complained Mayor Joseph L. Alioto of San Francisco.

Alioto, president of the Conference of Mayors, told the intergovernmental relations subcommittee the cities are being hit with "steadily rising costs — inflated payrolls, more costly supplies and equipment and capital improvements financing at high interest rates."

He said revenues, which fall short in times of recession, are inadequate to meet costs and cities have been undertaking a "variety of belt-tightening strategies: layoffs, hiring freezes, cutbacks in services and raising of local taxes."

One by one the mayors came forward to testify that the cost of running local government is being pushed through the ceiling as a result of inflation.

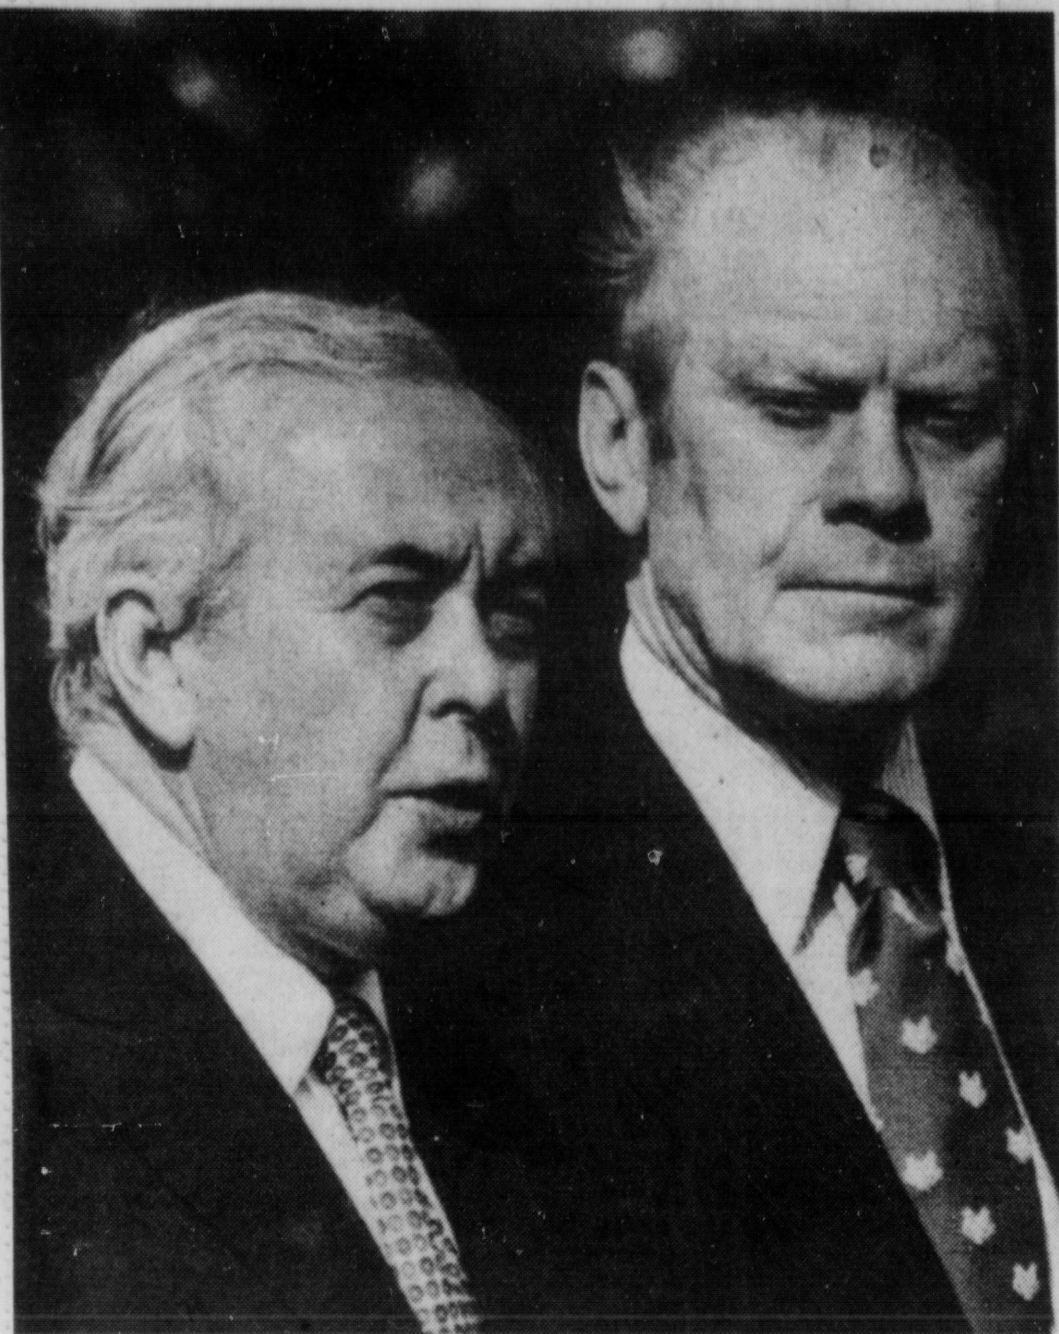

"The cost of gasoline to run our police, fire, ambulance, trash-collecting and other vital service vehicles has more than doubled," said Mayor Henry W. Maier of Milwaukee.

Maier said a one-shot $5 billion in aid "must be in addition to the re-enactment of the general revenue sharing program, without which our cities could no longer survive."

With the federal government deeply in debt itself, planning to borrow between $75-80 billion in this and the next fiscal periods, Congress may be in no position to bail out every city budget.

Chryslers Rolling, AMC Layoffs

DETROIT (UPI) — Chrysler Corp. is scheduling its highest production in more than two months next week while American Motors idles 60 per cent of its 18,750 workers in a nearshutdown of its facilities for one week.

AMC, which had been able to buck the 1974 sales slump for most of the year, said Thursday the only car assembled next week will be the Pacer, a new subcompact due for public sale in March. About 11,350 workers will be laid off in Kenosha and Milwaukee, Wis., Brampton, Ont., and Toledo, Ohio.

Chrysler said it will operate all but one of its eight U.S. car and truck assembly plants — the most since before Thanksgiving.

Temporary Chrysler layoffs will drop from 11,950 this week at three plants to 1,850 at the one plant closed next week. Chrysler's indefinite layoffs will remain at the same level — 51,000 out of a labor force of 114,000.

The new AMC layoffs were announced as industry analysts predicted Jan. 21-31 sales will be up about 30 per cent from mid-January. It will be the first full sales period covering the $200 to $600 cash rebates now offered by all four

U.S. companies.

However, even with the increase, sales still would be off 15 per cent from last year's already depressed levels. In early January, sales were down close to 33 per cent.

Fifteen car and truck assembly plants are closed this week and nearly 250,000 workers idled, including 177,000 on openended layoffs out of a work force that now stands at 676,000. Industry executives said those indefinite layoffs should not go much higher and should begin dropping by March.

General Motors earlier this week said it planned to close seven plants for one week starting Monday, idling 15,505 workers in addition to more than 93,000 on indefinite layoffs. The only Chrysler plant which will remain closed will be the Newark, Del., assembly plant. The plant's 1,850 workers have been laid off since Nov. 4.

The AMC layoffs include 4,500 at the Kenosha plant, 3,000 at the Milwaukee body plant, 850 at Brampton and 3,000 at the Jeep facility in Toledo, Ohio. It was the first layoffs at the Jeep plant since the sales turnaround began in September of 1973.

Another Month for the 'Earned Re-Entry'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford has given Vietnam war draft evaders and deserters another month to sign up for "earned re-entry." But pro-amnesty groups still spurn his program and are pushing Congress for full amnesty.

"The extension of a bad program does not make it a good program," said Louise Ransom, a Gold Star mother who heads Americans for Amnesty.

Ford Thursday extended to March 1 his program of pardon and clemency — usually in return for a tour of public service work — which was to have expired at midnight tonight.

The President said he ordered the program extended because "I believe that many of those who could benefit from it are only now learning of its application to their cases."

Charles Goodell, the former New York Republican Senator who heads the Presidential Clemency Board, said the board urged a six-month extension to try to explain the program to those eligible.

"The President was originally disposed to let it end," Goodell said. "He was persuaded that there were a great many people out there who didn't know about the program. Then, he said, 'Well, let's give it another month.'"

Goodell said, "We have had six times as many applications in three weeks as we had in the first four months."

Asked about prospects for a further extension, if the current level is sustained through February, Goodell said: "I think probably if we're getting a good reaction, the Clemency Board will recommend further extension. That assumes a very good reaction in the next few weeks, but I have no idea whether the President will extend it, and people shouldn't count on it."

The Ford program deals with convicted draft evaders and military deserters through the Presidential Clemency Board, unconvicted draft resisters through the Justice Department and unconvicted military deserters through the Defense Department.
